CENTRAL OF GEORGIA TRAIN PLUNGES INTO CREEK AT CUTHBERT

Train No. 12 Goes Through Trestle Weakened by Washout Into Pachita Creek, but No One Is Killed

MAIL CLERK MENDENHALL ONLY ONE BADLY HURT

Washout on Main Line Between Macon and Montgomery—Every Car Left Track When Structure Gave Way

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
CUTHBERT, Ga., July 21.—Crashing through a trestle weakened by washouts, Central of Georgia train No. 12 fell into Pachita creek, five miles east of here, last night, but no one was killed.

A mail clerk by the name of Mendenhall is reported seriously injured and minor injuries are reported sustained by other members of the crew and several passengers.

Every car left the track and part of the train is submerged by the waters of the creek, which was swollen under the recent heavy rains.

The Pachita creek, which is about half way between here and Shellman, is ordinarily a small stream, but its swollen condition of late has weakened the trestle to such an extent that ti was unable to withstand the weight of the train.

WHILE SURGEON OPERATED, POLICE WAITED OUTSIDE

Dr. M. W. Lewis and Young Woman of Carrollton Arrested Here

For almost an hour, while the surgeon continued with his delicate operation behind the closed doors of an Atlanta sanitarium, Monday morning, detectives of the Atlanta police force waited outside, fearing that their interference might unnerve the surgeon and imperil the life of the unconscious patient on the operating table.

When he had finished the operation, Dr. M. W. Lewis, aged about thirty-five, of Carrollton, Ga., stepped out and was informed that he was wanted upon the charge of having brought a young woman to Atlanta with him from Carrollton Monday morning and registered with her as man and wife at a local hotel.

The twenty-year-old daughter of a well-to-do planter living in the country between Carrollton and Waco, had been taken in charge by the police an hour before at the hotel, and at that moment was sobbing behind the bars of the matron's ward at police headquarters.

"Don't let papa know!" she begged. "Don't let him know. I'm afraid he'll kill Dr. Lewis."

Nevertheless Chief Beavers notified the father by wire at 2 o'clock, and anticipated that he would arrive in Atlanta some time during the afternoon.

On the charge of disorderly conduct, Dr. Lewis was due to face Recorder Broyles during the afternoon. His bond had been fixed at $1,000. After his arrest at the sanitarium, he was held in confinement at police headquarters in default of making bond.

The matter first was brought to the attention of the police by a man from Carroll county, who came into Atlanta Monday on the same train with the couple from Carrollton. He has known the young woman since her infancy, and is also acquainted with the physician. He watched them when they left the depot, and followed them to the hotel, inspecting the register and finding that they had registered as man and wife. He called the police, but before they could arrive Dr. Lewis had left the room which had been assigned to him and the young lady and had departed for the sanitarium to perform an operation.

The police found the young woman alone. She protested that she and Dr. Lewis were married. She maintained that story for over an hour. Captain Poole, of the police force, finally arrived, and, quizzing her more minutely, broke down her story. She then declared that she had not known that Dr. Lewis was married, as man and wife. She asserted she had come to Atlanta to get her teeth fixed, and that she had asked the physician, who is an old friend of the family and is the family physician, to escort her to a hotel.

BIG PROVINCE OF FUKIEN SECEDES FROM CHINA

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, July 21.—Fukien province has seceded from the Chinese republic, according to a dispatch to the state department today from Consul Fowler at Foochow. Fukien borders upon Kiganst and Kwang-tung, the two provinces which have thrown off allegiance to the Peking government.

The legation at Peking reports that the local government of Canton in Kwang-tung province proposes to send 15,000 troops north within a week to engage the government forces.

The provincial assembly has confirmed Chen Shuing Ming as military governor of Kwang-tung province and appointed him commander-in-chief of the army which is to proceed against the northern forces.

War on Hookworm

GREENVILLE, S. C., July 21.—A large number of persons desiring to take examination for hookworm applied to the experts at the court house today. A campaign has been inaugurated in Greenville under governmental direction. The experts have arranged an itinerary covering even the famed Dark Corner.

GEORGIA SOLONS MAKE MERRY AS AUGUSTA'S GUESTS

The above pictures taken at Carmichael's Fishing club, give only a scant idea of what a great time the general assembly had on its pleasure jaunt to Augusta for the inspection of the state medical college. Music played an important part in the happenings of the day. Agricultural Commissioner J. D. Price and J. Lee Barnes, manager of the Majestic hotel, who is not a legislator, even though he looks like one, lead the chorus and were the storm center from the time the "special" left Atlanta until it returned Saturday night at 11 o'clock. They are shown in the upper left hand corner conducting their informal midsummmer music festival. On the right is Dr. M. Ashby Jones, pastor of the First Baptist church of Augusta, whose speech swept visitors and hosts alike from their feet. He entered into the spirit of informality that characterized the affair and appeared perfectly at home in his shirt sleeves. The eminent divine was snapped by photographer just as some one uncorked a good joke. At the bottom is Governor John M. Slaton telling Samuel L. Olive, one of the Richmond delegation, what a great time everyone had, when the party began to break up. Representative Olive was responsible, in a large measure, for the event, and spent his time making all feel at home. He gets a large amount of the credit also for securing an appropriation of $30,000 for the medical college.

BULGARS READY TO ORDER TRUCE WITH SERBS AND GREEKS

New Cabinet Notifies European Powers It Will Stop Fighting If Powers Can Stop Servia and Greece

(By Associated Press.)
LONDON, July 21.—The new Bulgarian cabinet, under M. Radoslavoff, formally notified the European powers today of its readiness to order the cessation of hostilities immediately if the powers can induce Servia and Greece to take a similar course.

Serbs Would Exterminate Entire Albanian Districts

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, July 21.—A private message received by the Rev. Dr. Henry Otis Dwight, secretary of the American Bible society, from an American missionary now making his way from Scutari into the devastated regions of Albania, says that the Servians are engaged in what is their belief to be an attempt to exterminate the population of several of the Albanian districts.

Guards from the Servian army, the message says, are patrolling territory definitely assigned to Albania, at a distance of as much as twenty-five miles from the boundary, to prevent any one getting out of or going into the region. Thousands of refugees are in the mountains without shelter or food, exhausted and starving, feeding on roots, grass, bark and twigs.

"I found near Leah," said the missionary, "and all the way from Scutari, a great many villages burned, and few fields planted. The country has been ravaged by the Servians, by the Montenegrins and by the Turkish army under Essad Pasha, who thus punished the inhabitants for refusing to help him save Turkey. At Kroya we heard of four women and forty-eight men who had been wantonly hanged, shot or cut to pieces with swords by the Servians."

Expect Turk Declaration Against Bulgaria Soon

(By Associated Press.)
CONSTANTINOPLE, July 21.—The Sublime Porte has issued formal orders to the army to occupy Thrace and Adrianople.

In a note acquainting the powers with this decision it is announced that the new Turco-Bulgarian frontier will be the river Maritze. The Porte saddles Bulgaria with responsibility for any fighting that may ensue.

The Porte's note is regarded as foreshadowing a declaration of war against Bulgaria. This course has been discussed by the council of ministers as a means of enabling Turkey to recover her liberty of action, which was compromised by a London convention.

WASHINGTON ALARMED BY MEXICAN REPORTS OF IMPENDING CRISIS

Officials Declare Information Is of Such Delicate and Important Nature That It Cannot Be Published

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, July 21.—Alarming reports of an approaching crisis in Mexico have been received here by high officials. It was stated today, upon unimpeachable authority, that the developments of the coming two weeks are regarded as fraught with tremendous importance to the Huerta government.

So delicate is the information they contain that an intimation of the advices became known today only with the stipulation that it was unofficial, and that it should not be repeated as being the view of any official of the United States government.

PUBLICATION WITHHELD.

Authoritative publication of the nature of the advices, it was said, probably would precipitate the very crisis the dispatches forecast. The means by which the predicted events were to be brought to pass or what was to follow, were not hinted at in the reports, which, so far, have found no reflection in military or naval preparations by the United States.

Meanwhile the administration is marking time on the Mexican problem, pending the arrival of Ambassador Wilson from Mexico City, which is expected by Thursday or Friday.

President Wilson finds himself in the same state of doubt as to actual conditions in the rebellion-torn republic as he did when, in the hope of getting at the facts, he summoned the American ambassador to the capital.

He realizes that even the Americans scattered throughout Mexico individually are unable to get a comprehensive view of the situation in the whole of the country, their judgment being affected by purely local events.

MEXICO REPORTS ONE-SIDED.

From the Mexican capital come reports that have turned every engagement into a federal victory and so far the administration has heard absolutely nothing except through the press reports from the constitutional side of the case.

This has led to an intimation that information of reliable character from that source would be welcome by the administration.

At the request of Secretary Bryan, Surgeon General Blue, of the public health service, has ordered quarantine officers at Havana and Key West to expedite the passage of Ambassador Wilson.

The suggestion from Consul Lespinasse, at Frontera, Tobasco, that a United States gunboat there would quiet the fears of Americans who are apprehensive because rebels have threatened to attack that port and already have occupied a few American-owned plantations near the city, is being considered, but no request has yet been made to the navy department for additional war craft in the Gulf of Mexico.

Garrison Inspects Posts Along the Mexican Border

(By Associated Press.)
GALVESTON, Tex., July 21.—Secretary of War Garrison and Major General Leonard Wood, who arrived here last night, spent this morning in an inspection of the military reservation at Fort Crockett, near Galveston, and the permanent camp of the Fifth brigade at that place.

Later in the day they went to Texas City for an inspection of the camps of the Fourth and Sixth brigades of the Second division. At the request of Secretary Garrison there was no review of troops at Texas City.

The party will leave tonight for San Antonio.

RECEIVE FIRST CHECK ON CARNEGIE'S VANDY GIFT

Chancellor Makes Announcement to Show Episode of Bishops' Veto Is at End

(By Associated Press.)
NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 21.—Chancellor J. H. Kirkland announced today that a check for $200,000 of Andrew Carnegie's gift to the Vanderbilt university medical department had been received. This sum is for the erection of laboratories.

The interest on the remainder is being held by the Carnegie corporation for the benefit of the medical school. The announcement is made that so far as the present board of trustees is concerned the episode of the bishops' veto of the Carnegie gift is at an end.

The governing board of the medical school, appointed by the university board of trust recently will meet in October.

CHARGE OF DRUNKENNESS AGAINST MARIETTA NEGRO

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
MARIETTA, Ga., July 21.—Harley Tate, a negro, with two other negroes, staggering a half-drunken condition along the streets here Sunday afternoon tripped and stumbled against a young lady of the community just as she stepped from a buggy to enter a soft drink stand. He was seized immediately by a white youth, who turned him over to a deputy sheriff a few moments later, and the negro was locked in jail for his own safety as well as to detain him. He will be tried on the charge of having been drunk and disorderly, his stumble having been due to his condition and not to intent.

LONG WRANGLE IN SENATE OVER DAMAGE SUIT BILL

Bill Introduced Allowing Sheriffs to Carry Negro Prisoners in White Coaches

Senator Tarver accused Senators Elkins and Miller of endeavoring to filibuster on a bill regarding recovery of damages in case of homicide when the senate reconvened Monday morning, with the result that the measure, which is a very important amendment to the code of Georgia, will come up as a special order Tuesday morning.

Senator Tarver declared he had been trying to pass the measure for four years, and that each time its opponents had succeeded in having it delayed until it was too late to take action. The senator had a hundred copies printed and distributed to the members Monday morning.

The opponents of the bill declare it will mean the yearly loss of several millions of dollars to the railroads of the state. They say that whereas the present law allows only certain relatives of a homicide to sue for damages, this law would extend the privilege to any one who, is akin to the dead man of any debtors.

The wrangle on the homicide bill was about the only feature of interest to Monday morning's session of the senate, although that body passed more local bills than on any previous day.

Several new bills of interest were introduced, among them a measure by Senator Searcy which allows a sheriff or his deputy to carry a colored prisoner on the train in cars designed only for white people. Sheriffs all over the state, says Senator Searcy, have complained to him that the carrying of colored prisoners in cars for colored people often results in trouble or escape.

Senator Elkins offered a measure which changes the old and prescribed form, of oath, which a witness takes before a grand jury. This bill will allow a witness to be sworn for an investigation before an indictment is drawn.

APPROPRIATIONS BILL BEFORE HOUSE TUESDAY

Bill Probably Will Be Ready for Governor's Signature Next Week

Notice that the geeral appropriations bill would be put upon its third reading and passage in the house Tuesday morning immediately after the reading of the journal was given Monday morning by Chairman Crawford Wheatley.

In reporting the appropriations bill for passage so early in the session Chairman Wheatley and his committee have broken all records. It is believed that the bill will be passed by the house as drawn by the committee and that a vote will be taken upon it not later than Wednesday. This will send the measure over to the senate, which is expected to finish with it some time next week. If no amendments are tacked on to it in the senate it will b ready for the approval of Governor Slaton within three days after that body passes it.

HANKS ARRESTED FOR MURDER OF BLANKS

(By Associated Press.)
MIAMI, Fla., July 21.—W. Hanks, a former county convict, is in jail charged with having killed S. L. Blanks, a farmer of Arch Creek, last night. Blanks is said to have been choked to death. The trouble is said to have begun when Blanks, a town trustee, ordered Hanks to leave the community.

Oh, Joy! Cool Weather Is Official Forecast For "Se-vee-rial" Days

For several days, at least, Atlanta is to have relief from exceedingly hot weather. The thermometer registered only 84 degrees Monday morning, and the forecaster says that it will continue cooler.

Toward the end of the week the mercury will begin to climb again, but even then it probably will not be quite as warm as it was last week.

Fair weather is predicted for tonight and Tuesday.

JOE HILL HALL TO RUN FOR MAYOR OF MACON

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
MACON, Ga., July 21.—A political announcement came from Joe Hill Hall today. He threatens to run for mayor. He has been numerously urged to be a candidate. He has always been allied with the present administration party, though of late his support has been somewhat lukewarm and possibly indifferent.

WILL NOT INDICT JIM CONLEY NOW, JURY'S DECISION

Solicitor Dorsey Makes Brief Announcement to This Effect After Grand Jury Session Lasting Over an Hour

NO ANONYMOUS LETTERS WANTED BY THE JURORS

Solicitor Dorsey Will Now Concentrate Efforts Against Having Frank Jury Drawn From Grand Jury List

Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey has for a second time blocked an attempt by members of the grand jury to indict James Conley, the negro sweeper, who confessed complicity in the Mary Phagan murder.

The grand jurymen who had called a meeting over the protest of the solicitor to consider taking up a bill against the negro listened to the prosecuting official for more than an hour Monday morning, and then authorized him to announce that the matter will not be taken up at this time.

DORSEY MAKES STATEMENT.

The solicitor wrote out his statement, which is as follows:

"I am authorized by the grand jury to say, first that no action will be taken at this time on the James Conley matter; second, that the grand jury will not pay any attention whatever to anonymous communications."

The solicitor would not explain or amplify the statement in any way, but it is naturally supposed that the grand jury has decided not to take up the Conley matter until after the trial of Leo M. Frank, giving the solicitor a clear victory.

A QUORUM PRESENT.

There were eighteen members of the grand jury, a quorum, present when the meeting was called to order by Foreman W. D. Beatie. The solicitor was asked to remain in the room, when the meeting opened, and he did not leave it until the meeting adjourned more than one hour later, and the presumption is natural that he took part in the discussion of the case.

The solicitor had previously announced his position in the matter, declaring that the indictment of Conley at this time would be a serious mistake, and saying that it would have "a mild but undesirable" effect on the state's case against Leo M. Frank.

Just why the solicitor should have seen fit to add to his announcement the statement about anonymous communications also remains unexplained. It has been known that the Phagan mystery from the first has called forth many anonymous letters. The city detectives, the counsel for the defense, the solicitor, the past and the present grand juries have been flooded with them.

The solicitor's statement might lead to the inference that the "public sentiment" which worked on the grand jurors until they called the meeting, was of the anonymous communication sort.

MADE LONG SPEECH.

From the length of time during which the solicitor was before the grand jury it is apparent that it was not without difficulty that he persuaded the members of the body to let the Conley matter alone until after the Frank trial.

It is reported that the solicitor quoted many laws to the grand jury to strengthen his position in the matter, and an interesting decision on the point involved which appears in the 102 Georgia reports, page 271, was quoted in full.

Dealing with the case or Rix against Brantley, the supreme court in this decision says: "It is the solicitor general) is to determine whether or not to commence a particular prosecution or to discontinue one already begun. The solicitor general draws the bill of indictment, and examines the witnesses, not with a view to the interest of any client, but alone to subserve the public justice. The whole proceeding from the time the case is laid before him, is under his direction, supervision and control."

No other meeting of the grand jury has been called and it is probable that none will be until after July 28, when the case against Frank is set for trial.

DRAWING OF JURY

The solicitor general's next fight in the famous murder case will come next Thursday, when he will oppose the motion of counsel for the defense of Frank.

NICARAGUAN POLICY WINS SUPPORT FROM ALL SIDES

Proposal Does Not Bind U .S. to Nicaragua's Debts–Obtains Canal Control

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 21. — Strong support has developed in the senate for President Wilson's new policy of protection and supervision over Nicaragua. An informal poll of the committee on foreign relations today indicated that the treaty proposed Saturday by Secretary Bryan will receive indorsement with a safe margin of votes and come into the senate with the backing of influential members of both political parties.

It became known definitely today that the proposal does not bind the United States to any obligation for the outstanding debts of Nicaragua. The rehabilitation from the republic's finances is expected to come about through the stability that would be given to future operations through the control to be exercised by the United States.

Nicaragua would agree to make no debts in excess of her current revenues, however, and the United States would be given the right to intervene with troops at any time to insure Nicaraguan independence or to protect life and property. Nicaragua would agree to make no foreign treaties that would threaten her independence. The United States would pay Nicaragua $2,000,000 for an exclusive right to build a canal route and for a naval base in the Bay of Fonseca.

"The proposed control by the United States over the financial operations of Nicaragua is virtually an enforcement of the Knox doctrine," said one, "but a step in advance," said one member of the senate foreign relations committee today.

Senators Hitchcock, Sutherland, Mark Smith, O'Gorman and Stone expressed approval of the general principal of the proposal.

ATTITUDE OF BACON.

Chairman Bacon, of the foreign relation committee, who was strongly opposed to the original Nicaraguan treaty, said he believed the new proposal by Secretary Bryan greatly changed the situation and entitled the treaty to "the most careful consideration."

The proposed treaty will be attacked in some quarters on the ground that it would put a moral obligation on the United States to see that Nicaragua refunds and repays her old debts, even though the treaty does not make this country directly responsible for them.

Whatever the actual result may be, the underlying purpose of the administration is framing the agreement with Nicaragua was to secure the concession for a canal route and the extension of the Platt amendment was merely an incident in the minds of the negotiators. This was developed in the course of a conference between the president and the White House correspondents today.

In the administration view, the scope of the plan was not intended to be laid down as a general policy for all Central America, but the affairs of the little republics are to be dealt with separately as they may require attention.

The attitude of the administration, it was said, is one of extreme friendliness and there is no disposition to force upon them any such plan, unless it is thoroughly acceptable.

In making this sort of an arrangement, the administration, it was stated, was animated by a desire to look after American interests, but only in a large way; it was not the purpose to exploit those countries. This statement was taken to apply to the suggestion that European governments may feel an interest in the new Nicaraguan proposition, and wish to assure themselves that the United States was not to acquire any advantages over them in that quarter. The administration knows nothing of the attitudes of the governments of Costa Rica and Salvador, as no representations have yet been made.

NO CANVASS MADE.

The president himself does not know how the proposition will be, but thoroughly approves will be received by the senate, having taken no steps to make a canvass of Democratic sentiment.

"This is not dollar diplomacy; it is good sense," said Senator Lodge in general support of the plan.

Senator Borah, also a member of the foreign reltions committee, attacked the policy of the plan.

"This means the going up of the American flag all the way to the Panama canal," he declared in a statement. "It is the beginning of that policy, whose irrefutable logic is complete domiance and control and ownership by the United States from here to the Panama canal."

"It is not exactly in accord with either the conceptions of those who formed the republic, or our own present profession of what it ought to be."

Now that Secretary Bryan's proposal for a virtual protectorate over Nicaragua has become public, state department officials are expecting inquiries from the EUropean powers respecting its details.

The suggestion that the plan be extended to cover all territory near the Panama canal zone has aroused keenest interest in Latin-American circles with some hints of opposition. Salvador recently made some objections to the Nicaraguan treaty in its original form and oCsta Rica more recently objected to certain provisions relating to the proposed canal route, but the latter were based solely upon a claim for consideration in connection with the use of the San Juan river, which Costa Rica claims as her territory.

Europe's interest, however, is chiefly in the investments of her citizens in enterprises and securities of Latin-America. An association representing those interests has recently been supported by the British, French and German governments, and very recently Great Britain made a naval demonstration against Guatemala to force payment of its interest on bonds. The object of European representations will be to see that provision for guaranteeing such obligations is made in any treaties such as that proposed with Nicaragua.

CONFERENCE NEXT SATURDAY.

Secretary Bryan will confer on the project with the senate foreign relations committee next Saturday. His plan is said to have the support of President Wilson.

Assistant Secretary Osborne's recent visit to Santo Domingo and Haiti has brought up the suggestion that the system of American supervision of customs collections which has been in force for some time in Santo Domingo might be extended to Haiti if that republic is responsive to overtures.

4,000 Fans Start a Riot When "Bloomer Girl" Team Is Found to Be Men

Crowd Got Suspicious When Center Fielder "Pegged" Runner at Plate–Then Small Boy Pulled Off Third Baseman's Wig

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 21.—One policeman is in a hospital, two others are nursing bruises and awaiting new uniforms, and pet dream of the Union league baseball park is a wreck today, as the result of a riot at a Sunday baseball game when 4,000 enthusiasts discovered that a team of "bloomer" girls really were men in disguise. The team was taken to an eastbound train under police protection. A half hour before the storm broke, the manager of the "girls" aggregation had acquired the gate receipts and disappeared.

The team was so successful here four weeks ago that it returned for a second appearance, the opposing team being an amateur organization from Laurel, Md. The trouble started when the "girls" center fielder, a husky young blond, threw a ball from deep center to home plate, catching the runner. The spectators grew suspicious.

A moment later a small boy slipped up behind the supposed athlinty that presided at third base and gave her golden locks a vigorous pull. They came away in the form of a wig, revealing a chunky young man with an elaborate make-up ending just above his eyebrows. The team fled through a storm of bottles and bricks to the shelter of the club house, where the police massed.

The crowd then stormed the ticket windows, demanding their money back, venting their ire on the park property. Several persons were hurt in the melee, and sevral arrests were made.

NO HOT WAVE NEED BE EXPECTED DURING WEEK

There Also Will Be Little Rain, According to Federal Bureau Forecast

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 21.—No hot wave is looked for this week by the weather bureau.

"The present pressure distribution over the northern hemisphere," said the weekly bulletin today, "appears favorable for the prevalence of moderate or, at least, not unusually high temperatures over the greater portion of the country during the coming week. Over the southwest temperatures probably will be high at times, but not so high as during the week just ended.

"As to precipitation, prospects are not very favorable, and generally fair weather may be expected over all sections except the south Atlantic and east gulf states, where occasional thunder showers are likely to occur.

"There are no indications of a West Indian disturbance."

First Victim of Heat Is Claimed in Atlanta

The terrific heat of the last week or so claimed its first fatality in Atlanta Sunday when Mr. Patrick J. Boland, aged fifty years, head baker at Rogers' bakery, died suddenly at his home, 209 Richardson street.

At 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, when the mercury was close to the 100 mark, Mr. Boland went to his home complaining of the heat. He declared that he wanted to rest and retired to his room.

He was found there dead at noon Sunday by T. Z. Gallant, bookkeeper for the bakery. At 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon the coroner's jury returned a verdict of death from excessive heat.

He is survived by his wife and three children, who live at Lynn, Mass., and was a member of the Knights of Columbus, Portland council No. 101, of Portland, Me. The body was removed to P. J. Bloomfield's chapel to await funeral arrangements.

DECORATION FOR PEARY NOW UP TO CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Congress has been called upon by President Wilson for its formal decision whether Admiral Robert E. Peary, U. S. N., retired, may accept the decoration of grand officer of the Legion of Honor, conferred upon him by President Poincare, of France, in recognition of his arctic explorations.

Admiral Peary, as a naval officer, cannot accept a gift of decoration from a foreign nation without congressional permission. Accordingly the decoration was turned over to Myron T. Herrick, American ambassador to France, who forwarded it to Secretary Bryan. If congress so authorizes, Mr. Bryan will deliver the insignia to Admiral Peary.

ROME MAYOR PARDONS PROMINENT YOUNG MAN

ROME, Ga., July 21.—Farrell Buffington, well known young white man sentenced to serve eight days on the city chaingang for disorderly conduct by Recorder James F. Kelly, has been pardoned by Mayor Ben C. Yancey. The pardon was issued on condition that Buffington leave Rome. Soon after the pardon was granted, however, he was served with an indictment from the grand jury charging him with gambling. He is now out on bond, and will have to stay here until the case is heard.

STOCKHOLDERS SUING BIG INSURANCE COMPANY

Claim They Were Defrauded to Tune of $400,000

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 21.—The celebrated case of C. W. Stevens, et al, vs. the Great Southern Insurance company, was begun in chancery court here today. More than 1,000 stockholders, residing in Kentucky, Tennessee and other southern states, are seeking to recover $400,000 from the concern, alleging fraud. Practically $107,000 is held by the clerk and master here as receiver. The case has been in the state and federal courts for two years. The hearing will last for several days.

PILGRIM SUFFRAGETTES EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON

On July 31 They Will "Storm" Congress With Petitions for the Ballot

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Scores of suffragist-laden automobiles are hastening toward Washington bearing petitions to congress for a constitutional amendment granting universal suffrage, and by the end of this week, leaders of the National Woman Suffrage association said today, these automobiles would be numbered by the hundreds. The senate and house are to be stormed by the motoring women July 31.

Already a number of state parties of women are on their way here aweel. An official announcement says that deleations are now in road from Montana, Tennessee, Virginia, New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and several other states. These early starters are speaking for the "cause" alone the way and swelling their lists of signatures to the petition to congress.

Extended preparations are being made for the general receptions at Hyattsville, Md., to the women pilgrims. Martin Williams, reading clerk of the house, has volunteered to act as announcer as the several state delegations arrive in their cars. A large num er of senators and representatives have promised to serve on the reception committee, provided public business will permit, and there is to be music and other features.

DAN HATFIELD IS TAKEN PRISONER IN TENNESSEE

Reward Offers Were Just About to Be Increased When He Was Caught

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DALTON, Ga., July 21.—Sheriff T. R. Glenn and deputies left here Sunday in an automobile for Cleveland, Tenn., in response to a telegram notifying him that Dan Hatfield, charged with the murder of Will Parrish in North Dalton, had been apprehended by officers of Bradley county.

Hatfield's capture occurred a week after Parrish was killed. There was a reward of $50 for his apprehension, and plans for increasing the reward were pending when his capture occurred.

John and Tom Nicodemus, both eyewitnesses, declared Hatfield killed Parrish in self defense; but both of them are being held as accessories to the crime.

ROME DIVORCE RECORDS STEADILY INCREASING

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ROME, Ga., July 21.—Forty divorce cases were tried before Judge Moses Wright in Floyd superior court on Saturday. An examination of the docket shows that the number of divorces is continually on the increase, and the July term of superior court broke all records.

The usual average is from fifteen to twenty cases each term, or thirty to forty each year, but there were as many cases heard at a single term of court as is customary in a year.

UNION PACIFIC FORGERY CHARGE IS EXPLAINED

New York Financial Writer Now Believes There Was No Forgery

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Martin M. Mulhall, former lobbyist for the National Association of Manufacturers, continued his story today before the senate investigating committee.

A letter from Thomas Gibson, a New York financial writer, from whom David Lamar testified he got information to base his charge of an $82,000,000 forgery on books of the Union Pacific railroad, was put in the record. Gibson wrote he did not know Lamar, did not now believe there was a forgery and was sending out a retraction to his subscribers.

Paul D. Cravath, counsel for the railroad, put in a letter from a firm of public accountants, explaining the apparent discrepancies upon which Lamar based his sensational charge.

The late Representative Henry Loudenslager, of New Jersey, secretary of the Republican campaign committee in 1908, seemed to have incurred Mulhall's enmity. Mulhall wrote to Secretary Schwedtman, of the manufacturers:

"I told this gentleman that the manufacturers of this country were tired of pin-head policies and pin-head politicians, when I thought Mr. Loudenslager offered an apology claiming that he would be good from this time on, but I plainly gave him to understand that when he comes up for renomination he would hear from our people."

Mulhall did not fully explain why he had fallen out with Loudenslager.

Schwedtman wrote Mulhall one letter: "I do hope that when James E. Watson (of Indiana) gets in the governor's chair, he will lay a half dozen of his good friends (?) over his knee and spank them to beat the band, including your special friend, Senator Beveridge. I hate false friends more than I do the worst enemies."

Mulhall said all his accounts were kept by an expert who accompanied him in his trips, evidently his wife.

NEW JEWISH SYNAGOGUE FOR THOMASVILLE SOON

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

THOMASVILLE, Ga., July 21.—The new Jewish synagogue here is about completed and is a building that reflects credit upon the members of the congregation to whose work it is due. It is planned to have the building dedicated in three weeks, and an elaborate program is being prepared for the occasion.

Rabbi Solomon, of Savannah, has consented to be present, and will be in charge of the ceremonies assisted by other visiting rabbis.

It is one thing to make soda crackers that are occasionally good.

It is quite another thing to make them so that they are always better than all other soda crackers, always of unvarying goodness.

The name "Uneeda"—stamped on every biscuit—means that if a million packages of Uneeda Biscuit were placed before you, you could choose any one of them, conident that every soda cracker in that package would be as good as the best Uneeda Biscuit ever baked. Five cents.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and A FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. GEORGIA BOOM WILL BE STARTED ON WEDNESDAY

State Chamber of Commerce Will Include Representatives of All Sections

To correct a loss estimated at $10,000,000 a year, caused by Georgia not advertising her resources to the world as other states do, is the ultimate purpose of the proposed Georgia chamber of commerce, to organize which a mass meeting of representatives from every part of the state will be held Wednesday in Atlanta.

President Wilmer L. Moore, of the Atlanta chamber of comerce, who is giving the movement his active assistance, will call the mass meeting to order and preside over its preliminary organization. It is expected that delegates will be there from the commercial bodies of Savannah, LaGrange, Athens, Macon, Albany, Rome and other Georgia cities and towns, and that those progressive towns which have no commercial organizations will be represented by at least one of their leading men.

The meeting will convene in the offices of the Atlanta chamber of commerce at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. It will be open not only to accredited delegates but also to any other interested people who find that they can attend. It will be an "open forum" for the purpose not of raising money, but of outlining organization and getting the movement into tangible form.

"All who are interested in the movement should attend this meeting," says Charles J. Haden, chairman of the committee in charge. "The aid of their viewpoint and their advice will prove valuable to the big work in hand. Men should be proud to go on record as among the founders of what is bound to become the greatest organization that Georgia ever had for promoting her interests at home and advertising her attractions elsewhere."

The movement has the indorsement of some of Georgia's best known men. Scores of letters from every part of the state have been received by Chairman Haden, promising valuable co-operation.

PASTOR SCORES WOMEN'S SELFISH LOVE OF LUXURIES

Says They Should Allow Their Husbands Time for Public Service

Modern woman's selfish love of luxury which "changes her husband into a money-making machine" and leaves him no time nor spirit for political service in time of peace, was scored severely by Dr. Ferdinand Ruge, of Decatur, in the pulpit of All Saints' Episcopal church in Atlanta, Sunday.

"In times of war women willingly have sacrificed their husbands brothers, and sons, and the most primitive comforts in their lives, for the sake of their country," said he. "Is it not infinitely more important that the man should be ready to serve his country in a thousand public emergencies of peaceful times?"

Recently he urged a citizen eminently fit for public office, to undertake political duties, he said. "But he answered that the claims of his family on his purse are such that he could not afford to sacrifice part of his income by accepting a public position."

"Look to the maids and matrons of ancient Greece and old Rome and to the pioneer women of America, as your patterns of patriotism," he counseled the women of today. "In those days woman's ambition was not to obtain the vote and help to make and administer the laws, but to inspire men with patriotic zeal, to enable them by the simplicity and industry of their own lives to serve the country in times of peace as well as in times of war. Influence your husbands and children in the ways of nobler citizenship."

EAST POINT REVIVAL TO END THIS WEDNESDAY

For the past two weeks Rev. Robert Stewart has been holding revival meetings at the East Point Methodist church. Rev. Laurence Sims conducts the singing.

This is the third week of the meeting and services will be as usual at 7:30 and 8 p. m. Rev. Frank S. Hudson, pastor of the church, has announced that Wednesday will be the last day of the meeting.

THEATRES

(Criticisms of initial performances of the local theaters are written by members of The Journal staff. All other matter appearing in this column is furnished by the theater managements.)

FORSYTH—Vaudeville.
GRAND—Motion Pictures.
BIJOU—Tabloid Musical Comedy.

John P. Conroy, the world famous life saver, will be the headline attraction for the Forsyth this week, appearing in his own diving and swimming act, assisted by his diving models, two pretty young ladies. Conroy has appeared with success in all the leading vaudeville theaters in this and other countries. He has been the recognized headline star of every bill on which he has appeared and is acknowledged to be one of the greatest drawing cards in the profession.

In addition to this offering the Great Lester, ventriloquist of international reputation, will be a card. Lester is the cerator of nearly all the new styles in voice juggling and many of his best ideas have been copied.

Deiro, the celebrated piano-accordeonist, is another of the big star acts. He is a wonderful performer on the Italian instrument, and this is his first appearance in Atlanta.

The other acts are, Smith, Cook and Marie Brandon in "The Millionaires," an act that is crowded full of comedy. Shriner and Richards in "Just Nonsense." Mme. Ann, a novelty acrobatic duo, and George Auger and company in "Jack the Giant Killer." Auger is the tallest actor on the stage and his company is made up of midgets who are more than clever.

A photo play depicting Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables," will be shown at the Grand matinee and night all this week. Prices will be 25 and 50 cents.

DR. BARTON WELCOMED BY ATLANTA CHURCHES

Many Took Part in Exercises at Jackson Hill Baptist Church Sunday

A large congregation welcomed Dr. L. E. Barton, the new pastor of the Jackson Hill Baptist church, at the services at that church Sunday afternoon.

The services were presided over by Dr. John E. White, pastor of the Second Baptist church, and the representatives of the denominations of the city spoke. The opening Scripture was read by Dr. A.J. Gordon, of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church, and the prayer was pronounced by Dr. John F. Purser, of the West End Baptist church.

Dr. C. W. Daniel, of the First Baptist church, made the address of welcome in behalf of the Baptist ministers of the city; Dr. C. O. Jones, of the Grace Methodist church, in behalf of het Methodist ministers; Dr. Frank Little, of the Presbyterian ministers; Dr. P. H. Akers, chairman of the board of deacons of the Jackson Hill Baptist church, spoke a few words of welcome in behalf of the congregation.

UNITED MINE WORKERS REMOVE NON-UNION MEN

(By Associated Press.)

CARBON HILL, Ohio, July 21.—Three thousand coal miners, all members of the United Mine Workers of America, in a procession headed by a band and the American flag, today marched to the mines at Beaver Junction, four miles southeast, and removed 100 non-union miners. Two non-unionists are said to have been severely beaten.

This is the fourth similar outbreak within the last month, and it is reported that next Saturday, at a meeting Murray City, charges against officials of the United Mine Workers of America will be made, accusing the officials of sanctioning the employment of non-union miners in the pits of southeastern Ohio.

CASH AND STAMPS BURGLAR'S BOOTY

Ten dollars' worth of stamps and a stamp machine full of others, together with about $15 in cash, was the booty of the burglar who broke the lock from the front door of the Greater Atlanta Confectionery company, 209 Peachtree street, opposite the governor's mansion, some time Sunday night. The stamp machine was found, rifled of its contents, at the corner of Baker and Ivy streets, three blocks away, Monday morning.

MINISTERS DIFFER ON BIBLE READING MEASURE

Bill Now Before Georgia Senate Subject of Many Sunday Sermons

The bill of Senators Searcy and Bush, to require that the Bible be read in the public schools, was the subject of many sermons in Atlanta pulpits Sunday. Leading ministers spoke both for and against the bill.

This measure will receive a hearing before the education committee of the senate Tuesday afternoon. It is expected that definite action will be taken on the bill at that time.

Dr. Charles W. Daniel, pastor of the First Baptist church, and Dr. John E. White, pastor of the Second Baptist church, were two of the prominent ministers who differed in their attitude Sunday.

Dr. Daniel, in his Sunday morning sermon, said that the bill should be amended with a provision allowing all children to be excused from the reading if their parents objected to it. In regard to the separation of the church and state, Dr. Daniel declared that the Bible is not the exclusive possession of religious bodies, but has entered into the life of the nation.

Dr. White took the subject, "The Bible in the Public Schools by Force of Law," as his Sunday night sermon. He based his talk on the attempt to make Jesus king. Jesus, he said, would not have his kingdom established by force of law and military power. Since then, said Dr. White, there ever have been people who, with all sincerity, have tried to adopt any method that would give Christ the advantage. The Bible reading bill is identical in principal with the attempt to make Jesus king, the doctor declared, and, as such, should not become a law.

Dr. White agreed that it was the aim of every Christian man to make the Bible authoritative in the life of the people, and that the Bible was an essential element in education and civilization. But that, he said, is not the point at issue, but that the state, being a political institution, cannot, without violating its fundamental charter and without exceeding its established function, make the Bible the instrument of compulsion and the weapon of force.

Dr. White characterized Bible reading in the schools as an encroachment on the duty of the Sunday school, and said that it could end in but one thing—enforced Bible study for school children.

Dr. Dunbar Ogden, in his sermon at the Central Presbyterian church, advocated the bill, with the provision that children be excused if so desired. "Reference and righteousness are two more Bible studies that should be added to the already essential to education," he said.

Dr. L. O. Bricker, of the First Christian church, preached Sunday night in favor of the bill, as did Dr. H. M. DuBose, pastor of the First Methodist church. Dr. A. R. Holsinger, of the Moore Memorial Presbyterian church, was another who pleaded in his Sunday sermon for the passage of the measure.

THREE IN LAUNCH DROWN IN RIVER

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 21.—Three young pleasure seekers were drowned here today within view of many persons who were standing about the wharf, the victims being carried under a coal fleet so swiftly that any attempt at rescue was prevented. The drowned are Fred Salaman, twenty-six; Margaret Mullins, nineteen, and Anna Hall, twenty. Salaman was taking a new launch out on its maiden trip. His engine broke down and the launch drifted against a coal fleet and all were drawn under.

SHEEP RAISERS MAKE BIG SALE IN MITCHELL

THOMASVILLE, Ga., July 21.—Sheep raisers of Mitchell county have sold 8,794 pounds of wool at 18 cents a pound last week.

The price of wool has slumped so much in recent years that but little of it is sold now in south Georgia, those who formerly went largely into the raising of sheep for the wool having gone out of the business.

'HERETICS OF TODAY ARE PREACHERS OF TOMORROW'

Striking Sermon by Dr. Robins on Old Beliefs Giving Way to New Thought

That old ideas in religion must give way to new thought, just as old laws are discarded and new laws made for new conditions, was the substance of a striking sermon Sunday morning by Dr. J. B. Robins, pastor of Trinity Methodist church.

"The heretics of today are the preachers of tomorrow. They always have been and always will be," said Dr. Robins.

"The men in the past who blazed new trails of religious thought were not wanted in their churches. Erasmus, living an almost solitary life for seventy years, gave the world a new testament of religion.

"The law of progression is the law of life, and nowhere is this law so emphatically evident as in the Bible.

"Christ when He came to establish His kingdom on earth did not trust a single preacher or a single official among men to deliver His message. He chose humble fishermen, and why? Because they were not bound by old ideas. Because they wanted to know the truth, and could see it when Christ showed them.

"Paul, in writing to the Ephesians, told them to forget that which had gone before.

"Applying Paul's teaching today, what does it mean? It means, as Emerson said, that a man is a fool who tries to be consistent. It means that a man should live every day as if he had no past for his dependence and no future for his hope—that he should be true to himself and true to his fellowmen.

"The men the churches are shipping out today are the men the people want to hear. They are the men who have caught a vision of a larger life. There was such a man in this pulpit a few years ago. He helped hundreds and thousands to a better life. Where is he now? Gone—to another church. Gone where he can express himself.

"I have heard it said by leaders that the best preachers are those who haven't had a new idea in twenty years. Such men had better have been dead twenty years. Most of the doctrines being preached today were formulated 300 years ago, and they must inevitably give way to the spirit of progression. Already the world is saying hard things about preachers and about the church. What is the cure? I know the answer. It is that we are afraid to turn loose the willows of old ideas for fear we will sink when we try to swim."

CHAUFFEUR SAVES SELF BY DITCHING HIGHWAYMAN

The chauffeur for Ed L. Wight, of 262 Juniper street, was robbed early Sunday morning on the East Point road by two young highwaymen he had agreed to oblige with a ride to town, and only escaped a severe beating by their hands when he accidentaly ditched his car.

According to the chauffeur, he was driving down Boulevard and Inman Park, about midnight, when two young men asked him for a "lift" to town, and they piled in the back of the car. He had not driven very far when the young men pulled guns on him and told him to drive toward East Point. At a deserted part of the road the chauffeur says he was robbed of all the money he had.

The county police are looking for the young highwaymen on the strength of the chauffeur's story.

FOUR YOUNG WOMEN LEAVE MARTHA'S HOME

Police Believe Outsiders Furnished Them Money to Get Away

Four young women decamped from Martha's Home Sunday evening, and the police authorities are disposed to take Probation Officer Coogler's theory that persons outside the home conspired to help them get away and even furnished one of them money to leave town.

The names of the young women are Effie Drummond, arrested recently in the so-called rooming house of Lula Bell, at Peters and Fair streets; Maude Dougherty, committed to the home last December, escaped in April and recaptured at the house of Lula Bell; Beatrice Renfroe, the stenographer whom Mrs. A. M. Trippe named when she instigated the arrest of her husband last week on the charge of leaving her for another, and Myrtle Bell, whom the police did not committ to the home, and of whom they have no record.

The young women were missed from the home Sunday evening during the usual evening service in the chapel. At all other times during the week, the inmates of the home are required to wear a uniform, but on Sunday evenings they have been permitted to don street dresses. Dressed in ordinary fashion, therefore, the young women did not fear discovery. They are supposed to have walked out of the open front door.

ATLANTIANS TO ATTEND SACRED HARP SINGING

A number of Atlantians and other Georgians will attend the annual convention of the Alabama Sacred Harp Singing association in Birmingham on July 25, 26 and 27. Among those to go will be J. S. James, C. J. Griggs, J. W. Harding, Dr. S. W. Everett and others. The anticipated excursion rates were not secured, however, and the regular fares must be paid by all who go. The Alabama association co-operates with the United Sacred harp Singers' association, which will meet in Atlanta later this year.

SHE MARRIED TUESDAY; WAS DESERTED FRIDAY

Mrs. S. J. Jowers, of Fitzgerald, Hunts Husband in Atlanta

Married last Tuesday and deserted, she says, by her husband last Friday, Mrs. S. J. Jowers, of Fitzgerald, arrived in Atlanta Sunday and spent the afternoon on the streets looking for her husband. A plain clothes officer of the police force accompanied her, to arrest him at her instance if she found him.

But the search was unavailing, and late Sunday night the forlorn bride returned to Fitzgerald. Now the police are looking for Jowers upon a detailed description of him furnished by his wife.

Mrs. Jowers does not fear that her husband has been slain or that he's out of his mind, or anything like that. She says it is for wanted that he has deserted her.

One week ago she was Miss Victoria Pace, of Waycross. Her father is J. B. Pace, of that city.

"Mr. Jower had been courting me for several months," she told the police when they surmised incorrectly that hers had been one of the quick "romances" that so frequently end in this way. "It was a sure enough courtship. We were married in Waycross last Tuesday. He took me back with him to Fitzgerald, his home city. Three days ago he left—just left, that's all. I don't know where he went any more than you do, but I believe he came to Atlanta."

Mrs. Jowers told her story to Captain A. L. Poole at police headquarters, and Captain Poole designated a detective to go out into the city with her. She returned to headquarters even more disconsolate than when she had left, and the description that she gave of her husband was broken by sobs.

ATLANTA'S LATEST SKYSCRAPER, THE MAGNIFICENT HURT BUILDING, WILL USE CENTRAL STATION CURRENT FOR POWER AND LIGHT

THE HURT BUILDING

The purchase of CENTRAL STATION ELECTRIC CURRENT for lights and power for the magnificent new Hurt Building, at the intersection of Pryor Street and Edgewood Avenue, is probably the highest indorsement yet given this method of obtaining electricity.

The rates and service which Mr. Joel Hurt has secured for his building are the standard rates and identical service offered any individual or enterprise desiring electricity for power and lights under similar conditions. The contract is made to cover the requirements of the building now under erection. It contemplates that should the building be extended to double its present size the contract may be so adjusted as to meet the additional requirements at virtually the same cost at which the service could be furnished from an isolated plant. In short, a contract is made now with the hope that it will prove to the interests of the Atlanta Realty Corporation in its future building to continue to obtain its supply from the Georgia Railway & Power Company. If, after the expiration of two years, it should appear that the Atlanta Realty Corporation can produce its power from its own station at a saving worth considering, it would be at liberty to do so, and cancel the present contract.

Mr. Hurt, who built this latest monument to Atlanta's enterprise and progress, is well known as one of the greatest developers in the country. The Equitable Building and the superb Druid Hills residence section are his products; and it was he who conceived and built the first electric trolley lines in Atlanta, forerunners of the present street railway system.

Mr. Hurt is a trained engineer and is thoroughly familiar with the intricate details of the electrical business. Therefore, when he decided to buy Central Current for his masterpiece, the Hurt Building, after carefully investigating every other method of obtaining electricity, it was distinctly an expert indorsement of Central Station Current.

M'CRORY WRITES A CARD ON SCHOOL BOOK PRICES

Schley County Representative Replies to Prof. McNair's Communication

ELLAVILLE, Ga., July 19.

Editor The Journal: Will you allow me space to answer a communication from Prof. I. L. McNair in Friday's Constitution in regard to the cost of school books in Georgia. This is a question in which every child in Georgia is vitally interested.

In the first place, he says we have no school book trust in Georgia and to prove it he says "The Publishers' Weekly, which is a trade journal of all the publishers of the United States and is the supreme authority in all matters relating to the publication of books, including school books, gives a list of more than 150 publishing concerns that are in part or wholly devoted to the manufacture of schools books, each of these concerns being absolutely independent of all others."

Now, if all these publishing houses have one common head, while it does not prove there is a trust (and I do not say there is one), still it smells strongly of trust practices. I do not know, nor does the gentleman give us the proof of his statement that he knows there is no trust.

PRICES IN ONTARIO.

He either forgot to give the prices of school books or for some other reason he neglected to do so. Why did he not give the entire cost of school books in Georgia and the entire cost in Ontario? Now, I will supply the information as to some of the books for comparison. The first five books, towit, the primer and four readers cost the province of Ontario to edit, secure copyrights, and to electrotype, $8,600. When this was accomplished the minister of education advertised for bids to print for ten years these books and sell at retail and wholesale to the people in Ontario. The T. Eaton company, being the lowest bidder, secured the contract, at 49 cents. The same series were costing $1.15, and we are now paying $1.35 for the same.

During the first six months of its operation in Ontario, there was saved to the purchasers of those books, as compared with an equal number under the old price, the sum of $70,000, or more than eight times the entire cost to the government, and the contract has nine years and six months yet to run without any additional cost to the government. It is estimated by the minister of education that the purchasers of these books will save $260,000.

Now, take one book, the third reader, or any, but say the third. The entire cost to the province was about $1,700, and the saving to the purchasers of this reader during the first six months was over eight times the cost. This reader sells by retail there at 9 cents, while our third reader costs 30 cents.

The gentleman says these books would not be taught in Georgia one day. Does he give any reason why? I have the readers, and the same authors have selections in both the Ontario and Georgia readers. If the author is worthy in Georgia is he unworthy in Ontario?

MILLION FOR SCHOOL BOOKS.

The gentleman makes one statement which is incorrect. I never said that the text books in Georgia cost $1,000,000 each year. I did say and repeat that about $1,000,000 each year is spent in Georgia for school books. Now there is a vast difference between school books in Georgia and text books in Georgia. Text books are included in school books; but all school books, unfortunately for the children in the cities, are not adopted by the state board of education, and the prices fixed.

It is the system that I think is wrong. Nothing else in Georgia or out of Georgia works under the same plan as the purchasing of school books. If upon a practical demonstration it is proven that it is for the best interests of the buyers of school books and the children of Georgia to make a change in the plan, who will object to it? The state board is now charged with the duty of selecting suitable text books and the plan proposed is to let them continue to select the text books when prepared by the superintendent of education, Mr. Brittain. Prof. Brittain agrees with me that a fair, practicable test should be made, and see if we can have school books better and cheaper.

REPRESENTS THE PEOPLE.

Now as to the gentleman's statement that I was unfit to serve upon an investigation of prices. Who constituted this gentleman my guardian or the state's? I have never sold a school book nor have I been interested either directly or indirectly in the sale of one, except to pay the price as fixed by the state board. He says I am disqualified because I am biased and prejudiced. In whose favor? I represent the people of my county, and if they are to be denied a free and fair investigation, then we had best not investigate.

He tries to ridicule Schley county by stating how many school books were sold in the county. If one book is sold for more than it should be, the wrong is just as great as if 10,000 were sold to 10,000. From the statement of the gentleman he is very much alarmed for the dear people; as he says it would be unjust to them for me to serve on that committee. Every one that believes this, I promise to give a dime.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) C. R. M'CRORY.

DROWNED IN CHATTAHOOCHEE WHILE ON FISHING TRIP

JERRY MOLES

CASEY DANIELS

Jerry Moles, aged seventeen, and Casey Daniels, aged fifteen, were drowned in the Chattahoochee near Bolton some time Saturday while together on a fishing trip. Their bodies were recovered Sunday afternoon just before 2 o'clock, following a search which began Saturday evening when the boys did not return to their homes. The bodies had caught upon the hooks of a trot line stretched across the river just below the spot where they were fishing, and the line held them until George W. Smith, of 527 West North avenue, hauled them into sight.

The bodies were fully clothed. This fact indicated that one of them had fallen overboard while they were fishing, and that in trying to rescue him the other was drowned. Or perhaps their boat capsized, pitching both into the water. Neither could swim well. Their boat has not been found.

Both youths were employes of the Southern Machine works. They had been companions at play and at work for years. Recently they had worked together at the same shop machine.

Young Moles was the son of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Moles, of 24 Humphries street. Casey Daniels was the son of Mrs. F. T. Daniels, a widow, of 71 Hightower street. Mrs. Daniels is the mother of eight other children, but Casey's death leaves only one of them at home with her. He had been her main support for some time past. Both Mrs. Moles and Mrs. Daniels were overcome by the shock of their loss, and had to be attended by physicians.

It is said that Mrs. Daniels reported before the bodies were found that she had been told in a strange premonition that her son was drowned.

Coroner Donehoo made an investigation at the river Sunday afternoon, and expected to hold an inquest Monday. The bodies were taken in charge by Harry G. Poole, the undertaker.

DOUBLE FUNERAL.

A double funeral service will be held over the remains of the two drowned boys at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning in the Union Tabernacle on McDaniel street, Rev. S. M. Haynes will officiate. Jerry Moles will be buried in West View cemetery, and Casey Daniels will be buried in Sardis church yard cemetery.

MAYOR DEFENDS VETO OF TAX OFFICE CHANGES

Consolidation Would Leave Door of Favoritism Too Wide Open

Declaring that about the only reason he can see for consolidating the tax offices of the city is "simply for the purpose of political patronage," Mayor Woodward has defended his veto of the Nutting resolution, providing for the reorganization of the tax office, in a written statement which will be read at council meeting Monday afternoon.

"I take it," says the mayor, "that with these two offices consolidated, it leaves the door of favoritism too wide open, a condition that should not exist when it comes to the payment of taxes. The burden of taxation should bear evenly upon all classes of people. Every dollar should be made to bear its just proportion of the public burden, regardless of who owns that dollar."

MAYOR'S STATEMENT.

Mayor Woodward's statement in full to the council is:

"I return to your honorable body the resolution by Alderman Nutting passed at your last meeting looking to the consolidation of the tax assessors and receivers' departments.

"This is a law that was passed amending the charter last year, and has only been in effect one season, hardly time enough to prove its virtues.

"The original law was passed by your honorable body and the charter amendment secured through a movement of Alderman Candler, and I am constrained to believe, and so expressed, that it is a good law, and should be allowed to remain on the statute books. There is no more excuse for consolidating those departments than there is going further and putting the tax collector under the same authority.

"There has been a great deal of discussion and agitation of late years about some means of appeal from the plenary powers vested in the tax assessors. If a tax payer felt a grievance, or thought he was being unjustly treated in the amount of tax he was assessed, there was no appeal by which he could secure a hearing and possible relief. This law as it stands gives the tax payer an opportunity that, if he has a grievance he can appeal to the tax assessors. If they do not rectify it or give relief, then he can carry it to the tax committee; a very wise provision, according to my estimation.

POLITICAL PATRONAGE.

"About the only reason that I can see for consolidating these offices again is simply for the purpose of political patronage, a question that should not enter into this matter when the efficiency and the good of the city is taken into consideration.

"Another very good reason why the law should remain as it is, is that the city is benefited by thousands of dollars every year, and will continue to be benefited in the future to a much larger extent as the law becomes better understood and is more effectively put into force. As it has been in the past, before this law was enacted, personal property was given in, in a large measure much below its valuation. Now, when a person appears in the tax receiving department to give in his personal tax, he is put under oath and questioned as to every part of it, therefore, the law is more effective and the city is getting better results.

"I take it that with those two offices consolidated, it leaves the doors of favoritism too wide open, a condition that should not exist when it comes to the payment of taxes. The burden of taxation should bear evenly upon all classes of our people. The man of great means should bear the same burden as per his holdings, as the small man with his little home or his small amount of personal belongings. In other words, every dollar should be made to bear its just proportion of the public burden regardless of who owns that dollar.

"I again repeat that I can see no good to the city of Atlanta by the changing of this law, and I hope that your honorable body will take the same view, and give the law as it stands a more thorough test."

Pass the Compulsory School Bill.

It is gratifying to note that the Senate committee on education has reported favorably a bill by Senator Sweat, providing for a conservative plan of compulsory school attendance in Georgia. So manifest and urgent is the need of such a measure that it should enlist the hearty support of every member of the Legislature who is alert and loyal to the interests of those he represents.

Georgia has the unenviable and the very unfortunate distinction of being one of the only six States in the Union that are without any law of this character. That is not only a blot upon her reputation but also a grave injustice to the rank and file of her people. Illiteracy is an economic as well as a social barrier, a barrier to good work, to good citizenship, to the usefulness of the entire commonwealth.

Let the gentlemen of the Legislature reflect upon the fact that there are but five other States which have a larger percentage of illiteracy than Georgia. We cannot dispose of this shameful record simply by asserting that it is due to our excessive negro population. While that is undoubtedly a considerable factor it is not the only one in this grievous situation. There is in Georgia today a white illiteracy of nearly eight per cent; and while negro illiterates decreased more than fifteen per cent during the decade between 1900 and 1910, white illiterates decreased only four and one-tenth per cent.

These figures admonish us that in behalf of our practical interests, if not our ideals, we can no longer afford to neglect the vitally important duty of guaranteeing every Georgia boy and girl a fair measure of common school education. A well-considered compulsory school attendance law should be enacted at the present session of the General Assembly.

Money makes the man who makes the money.

The Free Kindergarten Bill.

The Senate committee on education has recommended for passage another timely measure, the bill by Senator McNell providing for the establishment of free kindergartens in connection with the public schools. That the kindergarten is essential to any well-rounded and constructive system of education, no one who has studied the subject even cursorily or from a practical standpoint can for a moment doubt.

The benefit of kindergarten training should not be limited as now to the children of a comparatively few well-to-do families; it should be placed within the reach of every Georgia home; it should be as free as the benefit of our elementary schools and when made so, as the McNell bill provides, we shall soon witness a wonderful invigoration of our entire educational system.

The kindergarten is not, as the uninformed might fancy, a luxury or fad. On the contrary, it is one of the most practical and fruitful institutions of the age. Its value is even more broadly and more truly educational than that of the common schools themselves. It develops not only the mind but chiefly the character of its little pupils. It performs the all-important service of fostering the social impulse upon which, in the long run, the great virtues of government and the highest usefulness of men and women depend.

The kindergarten is in no wise a substitution for motherhood and home but an aid and a blessing to them both. It is the richest and ripest fruitage of an age which has been truly described as "the age of the child;" and in seeking to utilize the priceless treasure and possibilities of childhood, it becomes a tremendous force for national strength and human progress.

Spend a Farthing To Gain a Fortune.

Swamp and overflow lands in Georgia are valued at from sixty-seven cents to a dollar and twenty-six cents an acre, according to the records of the Comptroller General's office; and the State's annual income in taxes from such lands is now a little more than thirteen thousand dollars.

It is conservatively reckoned that if these lands were drained, they could sell for at least fifty dollars an acre, for, they are naturally very fertile and are capable of producing luxuriant crops. Instead of yielding a tax revenue of only some thirteen thousand dollars, as now, they would turn into the State's treasury every year six hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars.

Can Georgia afford to neglect so fruitful a business opportunity? Can the Legislature afford to act otherwise than favorably and promptly on a proposition that will open the way for the reclamation of these swamp and overflow lands and thereby add *hundreds of thousands of dollars to the St te's prop*erty values and its tax income?

If the Legislature will appropriate five thousand dollars for a period of five years for drainage surveys, the United States government will contribute an equal amount to the same purpose and will render other invaluable assistance in carrying forward this important work in Georgia. Surely, the State will do well to spend a comparatively small sum in order to gain a fortune.

A bill to this end is now pending. It is earnestly to be hoped that it will receive the committee's recommendation and the hearty support of the General Assembly as a whole.

The Red Roll of the Balkans.

It is doubtful that in modern times there have been any battles so tragic in their human sacrifice as those of the Balkan war. The opposing armies have fought with savage fierceness, seemingly untempered by those common ideals which civilization is supposed to engender. A writer in the Boston Transcript calculates that Bulgaria alone, while she was still in alliance with Greece and Servia, "sustained a loss in killed and mortally wounded almost equal to one-third of the similar losses incurred by the Union army in the four years of the Civil war."

This is but a fragment and the beginning of the red roll, for, the fighting among the Allies themselves during the past few weeks has been even more ruthless than when they were engaged in a common campaign against Turkey. Reports from the various fields are naturally meager and incomplete but military authorities reckon that the number of killed and wounded on all sides since the Greeks and Serbs opened fire on Bulgaria is not less than fifty thousand. Much of this loss is doubtless due to the barbaric course of the Bulgars in massacreing defenseless villagers, though a great por*tion has evidently been sustained in actual battle* and it is all chargeable to the spirit of war.

"The magazine rifle and the rapid fire gun," says an observer of the Balkan strife, "have not heretofore wrought the havoc that was expected of them. It has been found difficult to bring troops into close action and each side has begun firing at long range." But in this war "line has been hurled against line," the bayonet has been driven to its mark, the fighting has frequently been hand-to-hand with all the cruelty and terror of which we read in the ancient historians' account of the battles between Rome and Carthage.

In addition to the staggering human loss which the Balkan wars have entailed, their devastation of property is beyond calculation. It will require long years for the peninsula to recover from the crushing blows of this far-flung conflict. Cities have been battered into dust, fruitful regions have been laid waste and in some instances the very means of livelihood have been destroyed.

Had the Allies paused after their victory against the Turk and devoted their combined genius and resources to the upbuilding of the country they had won, had they planned and worked together for the good of the people, they had emancipated, their war would have gone down to history as one of the splendid struggles of civilization against barbarism. But in turning upon one another, they have largely negatived the blessings that might have issued from their brave campaigns against Turkey. Their future is today a matter of dismal surmise.

The Greeks and Servians have, to be sure, manifested a high order of courage and press dispatches would indicate that in the recent battles they have refrained from such savagery as has stained the Bulgarian course. The part of Greece has been particularly valiant and impressive. Her army and navy rendered invaluable service in the earlier campaigns. Without her vigorous attacks upon Turkey's flanks, it is doubtful that the conquest of Adrianople could have been effected. Her claims to Saloniki seem well founded and her present resistance of Bulgaria's selfish policy is natural and justified.

It is to be hoped that means will be found by the larger Powers to terminate this wasteful and terrible war on a basis of justice to all concerned. Diplomacy could render no greater or more imperative service.

POISONS IN FOOD

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

He who gave a stone when asked for bread has been for ages a type of the heartlessly wicked, but what shall be said of him who selling poison when an innocent would buy food? Many food products on the market are actually poisonous—they contain arsenic, copper, coal tar products and other drugs that are introduced as preservatives or dyes, or that may be present as a result of a method of preparation. Even raw vegetables may be contaminated by the necessary spraying that protects them from insect enemies. The grocer who sells the food usually is quite innocent, the manufacturer often does not know that his food is poisoned. The buyer seldom has any particular knowledge. It is manifest, therefore, that extreme care is necessary, care upon the part of the consumer as well as upon the part of the producer and distributor.

The dangers arising from the use of celery which has been sprayed with a Bordeaux mixture to prevent its decay have led the department of agriculture to make a special investigation with the result that a warning has been issued to housewives recommending them to wash most thoroughly all celery purchased in the open market. The Bordeaux mixture is composed of a solution of lime and copper sulphate, and it is claimed that its use is absolutely necessary in the celery industry of Florida, as without it the celery cannot be sent to market in an unwilted condition.

The bureau of plant industry of the department has made some experiments which indicate that the spraying apparatus used by many celery growers is not operated at a sufficiently high pressure to make a fine spray or mist which should be confined principally to the leaves and needle like portion of the plant. Because of faulty apparatus, the Bordeaux mixture is applied in a number of fine streams and these, instead of settling upon the leaves as a mist and destroying the insects which cause the celery to wilt, run down between the stalks of the plant. In this way the poisonous mixture accumulates at the base of the plant and is not washed out by the rain. Sometimes this gives the celery a greenish tint which buyers have at*tributed to Paris green, but it is due simply to the* presence of copper stained lime. The department of agriculture, as a result of this investigation, has issued a circular to celery growers requesting that all spraying of celery plants with Bordeaux mixture *should be done with an apparatus working under pres*sure of a hundred pounds or more and that the spraying should be stopped as soon as a mist accumulates under the leaves, before the moisture has collected sufficiently to run down the stalks.

The tests made upon four different samples of celery purchased by the chemists indicated that after washing by hand and with a brush there was only 3.9 to 9 parts of a million in the outside stalk and from 1.4 to 3 parts per million in the inside stalks or heart, so that if properly washed the danger of eating celery purchased in the market is infinitesimal. The housewives can take this necessary care and the efforts made to induce the growers still further to reduce the danger by a greater care in the spraying system will doubtless prevent any further poisoning from this cause.

• • •

The old saying that poison exists in everything we eat is doubtless true in a certain sense and always will be. The efforts of the department of agriculture for the past few years have been to reduce the quantity of poison to the minimum. Arsenic is a substance especially apt to be found in all kinds of manufactured *food products and it has been decided by the depart*ment that 1 1-2 parts of arsenic in a million shall be sufficient to condemn a food. The cases of arsenic poisoning upon record are of such grave consequence that stringent regulations are essential regarding this *matter. The famous beer poisoning case at Birming*ham, England, a few years ago was perhaps the tragedy needed to call public attention to this matter. Over 1,500 persons were poisoned within a few days, a large number of whom died as the result of the arsenic, used in some of the chemical processes of beermaking, having impregnated the liquor to an unusual degree.

• • •

One of the foods to which attention has recently been given is gelatine as, owing to the means by which this substance is procured from bones and other animal matter, the possibilities of arsenic poisoning have been great. During the past two years eight men, under the direction of the chemical laboratory of the department of agriculture, have been giving their attention to gelatine and its methods of manufacture, including the coloring of certain prepared gelatine products which are sold under various commercial names. Several of the articles most widely advertised were found to contain arsenic in poisonous quantities. In most cases a little care upon the part of the manufacturers, when they realized that the pure food regulations were to be enforced, was sufficient to absolutely eliminate the arsenic, thus making gelatine a desirable food product, even when highly colored.

• • •

The increased use of coloring matter in prepared foods has given opportunity for the use of many poisonous substances. Among the tests made in investigating highly colored candy sold to school children, was the analysis of a bright colored piece sold for a penny which contained enough coloring matter to dye a child's stocking a bright pink. This color was found to contain arsenic in sufficient quantity to seriously menace the health of a normal child. Many of the colors used for tinting foods are derived from analine, a coal tar product, which is in itself a powerful narcotic poison. The different tints are secured by combining analine with other chemicals, including nitric acid, bichromate of potash and others.

• • •

While arsenic poisons are the most frequent in food products, others are often encountered. Lead poisoning has been known to come from certain kinds of cans in which prepared food has been stored, and the introduction of antimony into food may develop by placing it in cheap enameled ware such as is found in many kitchens. The possibility of poisoning from this latter source is almost as worthy of consideration as is that of copper poisoning which was not infrequently used as a cooking utensil. While leaden utensils are not to be found in many kitchens, the action of certain acids upon a leaden spoon has been found in exceptional cases to have produced poisoning.

• • •

The pure food laws have done much to protect the public from poisoned food, but their enforcement must of necessity rest largely with the public. The printing of the formula upon many food packages is a protection to the buyer who will take the trouble to read them. The danger from coloring matters has been largely overcome by the certification of a list of colors and dyes which have been tested by the department of agriculture and found to be absolutely harmless. The dyes which are not included upon this list may contain arsenic and other poisonous matter injurious to human health.

Poisoning the Child's Mind

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

One of the recent discoveries in the art of healing is the therapeutic value of suggestion. That is to say, the physician, by suggesting to the patient, particularly the patient suffering from nervous disorder, sane and helpful thoughts about himself, can work a cure better oftentimes than by the use of drugs.

The force of mental suggestion is so great that many fads, and even new religions, have arisen which are based upon it.

If the influence of good suggestion be so great, the influence of bad suggestion is even greater.

I wish to call attention to one form of character poisoning of which parents are frequently guilty.

Perhaps the worst misfortune that can happen a person is to be infested with germs of fear, to lack decision and self-confidence, to be a prey to the terrors of morbidity and doubt of self. Who can tell the mortal pain, shame and self-torture of the innumerable victims of chronic fear?

Frequently parents are responsible for this. A boy, for instance, develops some inborn trait of waywardness; he is untruthful, will not apply himself, is careless, disobedient, or persists in keeping bad company; the parent naturally tells him of his fault, and as it seems to do no good, drops into a constant practice of scolding. Over and over the boy is reminded that he is "bad," that he will never amount to anything, and so on. This finally filters in the child's subconsciousness, and then the irretrievable damage; for when he comes to believe in his sub-mind that he is bad, he is bad.

Why not try to find the CAUSE of your child's defects and remove it. When you KNOW that blame and reproof do no good, why go on?

We do not realize that it is a CRIME to say to any child, under any circumstances, that he is bad, weak or vicious. When you do that you are planting a seed of damage in his mind.

Many a woman has been wrecked because her life was poisoned when she was a child by unceasing mental suggestions from her mother that she was naughty, wicked, unreliable or untruthful.

Many a man is a weak failure in the struggles of mature life simply because the cult of failure was carefully instilled into him by his parents.

Dwell upon and encourage the good that is in your child. Ignore his defects as far as possible. Learn how to shut your eyes. Above all, do not tell him he is wicked. Show him his faults, but never in public, but in sacred intimacy. Show him the consequences of wrongdoing; but enlist his aid in opposing his bad traits. Persistently suggest to him that he is good, brave, strong and truthful. In after life this belief of yours in him will tone up his self-respect and give him strength in his hours of crisis.

Quips and Quiddities

Pat and Mike were obliged to halt their heavily loaded cart to make way for a funeral. Gazing at the procession, Pat suddenly remarked: "Mike, I wish I knew where I was goin' to die. I'd give £1,000 to know the place where I'm goin' to die."

"Well, Pat, what good would it do if yez knew?"

"Lots," said Pat. "Shure, I'd niver go near that place."

The eight-year-old daughter of a Boston household *recently sought out her father with a startling state*ment that her twin brother swore.

"Richard swearing!" exclaimed the parent, in a tone indicating that his ears were not to be believed.

"Yes, sir," persisted the child; "he swore."

"What did he say?" asked the father.

"He said 'ain't'."—Judge.

We used to be pretty well acquainted with a physician in a little town where there weren't many cases —but where there were always more cases than collections. This fine young practitioner had one troublesome patient—an old woman who was practically on the free list, but who registered more kicks than all the other patients put together.

One day she called to roast him for not showing up when she called him the night before.

"You can go to see your other patients at night," she howled, "so why can't you come when I send for you? Ain't my money as good as the money that them rich people pay you?"

"I don't know, ma'am," answered the doctor, gently. "I have never seen any of yours."

Pat could not find his watch, so he went to his friend, the lieutenant at the police station and reported that he had lost it. The lieutenant assured him that he would not lose a stone in New York unturned until the watch had been found.

Pat returned home much comforted by his friend's assurance, and a few hours later discovered the watch in the lining of his vest, so he set out immediately for the police station to inform the lieutenant of his find.

As he was passing along his way he saw some men who were tearing up stones in the street to put in gas pipes, and going up to them he said: "Niver mind, lads. I've found the watch."—National Food Magazine.

Ellen, Mrs. B.'s cook, had invested several months' savings in an elaborate Easter hat and gown, and had selected her afternoon off as the day in which she should burst forth in all her glory.

Having carefully arrayed herself, and longing for admiration, Ellen made an excuse to go into her mistress' presence, and waited for a compliment.

Knowing what was expected, Mrs. B. exclaimed: "Why, Ellen, how splendid you are in your new hat and gown! I hope you will meet all your friends this afternoon, so that they may see your fine clothes."

Ellen smiled graciously at the compliment, but tossed her head at the suggestion.

"Me friends, mum? What'll I be wantin' to see thim for?" she asked scornfully. "Sure, I don't care to make me friends jealous. It's me enemies I want to meet whin I'm dressed up!"—Lippincott's.

You think I'm steeped in slumber
And that you have my number.

Oh, well, you've got to know it.
You ask me why I shirk;
It's Love that keeps this poet

We are forced again to regret that Col. Henry Sydnor Harrison did not follow our advice years ago. We counseled him to stick to paragraphing instead of plunging into Litrachoor, but he would write "Quesa" and "V. V.'s Eyes." Our present sorrow is caused by a sense of the loss of his comments on the star-eyed blonde of Richmond, who was fined for wearing a skirt slit above the building line.

Miss Flossy Brown—that's her name—offered defense to the judge in Richmond yesterday by saying that the altitude of the slit in her skirt was a dressmaker's error. Our official scorer says it goes as a hit.

Miss Brown came to Richmond from Texas, which adds to our regret over Col. Harrison's dereliction. How he and Gen. George M. Bailey would have fenced over the red-haired widow of hotoldhouston!

MUNICIPAL COURT BILL PRESENTED TO ASSEMBLY

Bill Designed to Form Court to Replace Justice of Peace Benches in Atlanta

The bill which is to give Atlanta a new municipal court in lieu of her present system of justices of the peace was introduced in the general assembly Monday morning for passage, and after being read was referred to the general judiciary committee for consideration and report.

This is the measure that the Atlanta Bar association has given its unanimous indorsement, a committee representing the association having prepared it after months of work. Walter McElreath, chairman of the committee, and W. A. Fuller, its secretary, with other members of it, were in the halls of the legislature Monday when the bill was started on its way.

"The three representatives from Fulton county, and the local senator, Mr. Hule, of Jonesboro, have promised us that they will give the bill their support unanimously," said Mr. Fuller. "There is no opposition to it that we can see, and the indications are that it will be passed with due dispatch and will become a law at this session."

The bill provides that the new system shall supplant the old in Atlanta on January 1, 1914. It creates what is known as the municipal court of Atlanta, with one chief judge and four associate judges presiding. It provides for the nomination of these judges by the judges of the superior courts of the county, and their appointment by the governor. It abolishes the existing justice courts and abolishes the fee system, all judges and officers of the new court being placed on salaries. The bill creates the offices of clerk and deputy clerk, marshal and four deputy marshals. It provides for the expedition of all litigation and insures substantial justice in all cases at a minimum expense to the litigants.

CITY IS SUSTAINED BY JUDGE PENDLETON

Steel Company Is Denied Injunction to Stop Mud From Waterworks

Judge John T. Pendleton, of the superior court, on Monday denied the application of the Atlanta Steel company for an injunction to restrain the city of Atlanta from dumping water from the coagulating basins at the Hemphill avenue station into a branch which leads to the pond at the company's plant.

The steel company charged that the water is gradually filling up the pond and rendering it useless. The water in the pond is so filled with the mud, it is alleged, that when drawn up for use in the plant it clogs the machinery. In addition, one of the city's sewers empties into the branch above the pond, and the company sought to force the city to stop the sewer.

After hearing evidence and arguments in the case for three days, Judge Pendleton sustained the city, which was represented by City Attorney J. L. Mayson, and refused the injunction.

that the veniremen, from whom the twelve jurors to try Frank will be chosen, be drawn from the grand jury list instead of from the petit jury list. The Fulton county grand jury list contains approximately 1,000 names, while the petit jury list has more than 6,000 names on it.

The solicitor has made it known that he will vigorously oppose the motion. The drawing of the venire men from the grand jury list would be unusual and there is no instance of it ever having been done in this country, it is said. As yet, however, no law against the move has been advanced.

Conley Carried to Carter Street and Electric Ave.

Jim Conley was carried away from police headquarters in Chief Beavers' automobile about 11:20 o'clock Monday morning by Detectives Starnes and Campbell, who are working directly under the solicitor general.

The negro was returned to his cell within half an hour.

The explanation of the trip given by Chief of Detectives Newport A. Lanford was that Conley was carried to the corner of Electric avenue and Carter street in order that all of the residents there might see him, and if possible, identify him as a man seen in dispute with a white man about the day of the Phagan murder. He was not identified.

HERE'S A UNIQUE NEW COUNTY PLAN

If a bill of Senator C. E. McGregor's, which was considered by the senate committee on constitutional amendments Monday morning, is passed by the legislature, any new county which wishes to blossom forth in the future will do so only after action on the part of the general assembly other than to appoint a day for election.

Senator McGregor's bill provides that the creation of a new county shall be decided by a popular vote of the citizens of the county or counties from which the territory is to be drawn. A majority vote shall rule.

The members of the committee apparently favored the bill, but it has been deferred until the next meeting, so that it can be perfected. The questions hinge on who shall constitute the voters, people in the counties affected, the people only in the sections which are to form the new county, or the people who own property in these sections.

REQUISITION FOR LUMB MAY BE REQUESTED SOON

Attorneys Visit Governor, Requisition "Cheap Move," Say Woman's Lawyers

The matter of a requisition for the arrest and delivery to Georgia's custody of Fred Lumb, the New York barber charged in a justice court warrant with being an accessory before the fact to the alleged murder of the late Joseph F. Crawford, was broached to Governor Slaton by Attorney J. S. James Monday morning. But no formal application was filed for the requisition, and no action was taken one way or the other by Governor Slaton.

Neither did James had asked for the hearing Monday. Attorneys Arnold and Smith had asked to be notified when Mr. James would be heard, in order that they might be present. All Attorneys and Mrs. Crawford herself called at the governor's office at the appointed hour, Mrs .Crawford remaining in the anteroom.

Mr. James asked the governor if he would grant a requisition upon a justice court warrant.

Attorney Arnold interposed an objection, calling the move to obtain a requisition "a cheap, clumsy and transparent effort to affect litigation now pending in the Fulton superior court," in which Mrs. Crawford is the respondent and C. Z. Crawford and others represented by Mr. James are the plaintiffs. He had a statement in writing which he wished to submit if formal application was made for requisition, said Mr. Arnold. He called the move "an outrageous attempt to annoy and obstruct this litigation." Already the other side had taken their opponents with various offenses, out fly warrants said he charging and there had been one fist fight and about seventeen near-fights.

Governor Slaton asked Mr. James if he was making a formal requisition. Mr. James answered that he was not; that he merely was seeking information. Governor Slaton then read to him the section of the Georgia code which requires that before the governor shall grant a requisition he must have before him the request of a solicitor general, a solicitor of a county court, a judge or a solicitor of a city court, or the mayor of a town.

Mr. James had a justice court warrant only, which the section read by Governor Slaton does not recognize as legal for a requisition.

Retiring from the governor's office, Mr. James did not state definitely what further he expects to do in the matter, but intimated that he will comply with the requirements of the code and return later to the governor with a formal application for the extradition of Lumb from New York state.

House Bills

The following bills were introduced in the house Monday:

By Mr. Wheatley of Sumter—To authorize changang work on the streets of Americus.

By Mr. Picquet of Richmond—To create a civil service commission for Augusta.

By Mr. Pharr of Gwinnett—To amend the charter of Lawrenceville.

By Mr. Parker of Liberty—To amend the charter of Ludonia.

By Mr. Hays of Stephens—To amend the charter of the town of Toccoa.

By Mr. Evans of Screven—To amend the charter of the town of Sylvania.

By Mr. McRae of Fielder—To amend an act creating commissioners of Telfair county.

By Mr. Stovall of McDuffie—To change the open season for killing doves.

By Mr. Rainey of Jackson—To provide for the protection of the oyster industry.

NEW GARNISHMENT LAW IS ASKED BY MERCHANTS

They Also Will Urge Stringent Laws Governing Drawing of Checks

At the first session in the annual meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association of Georgia Monday morning at the Hotel Ansley systematic plans were made for securing the passing of senate bill 110, providing for a more stringent garnishment law, and of senate bill 107, which makes the drawing of fraudulent checks a misdemeanor.

About 200 representatives are in Atlanta for the meeting and about half that number attended the first session, the others having gone straight to the capitol on their arrival.

Wilmer L. Moore, president of the chamber of commerce, delivered the address of welcome, stating that the merchants' association was considered one of the most progressive and helpful organizations in the development of the city.

He drew attention to the need to urge the passage of other bills beside the two in which the merchants are especially interested, mentioning, among others, a compulsory education bill and one for better banking laws. His address closed with an invitation for all to attend the meeting on Wednesday of the various trade bodies to will convene for the purpose of discussing the establishment of a state chamber of commerce.

Following his address, the merchants at once went to work appointing committees to visit the capitol to urge the passage of the garnishment bill and the fraudulent check bill. Several hundred more men are expected in the city Tuesday to aid in the campaign.

The delegates to the convention will meet again Monday night and will map out a program for succeeding meetings.

J. W. S. Hardy, of Waycross, is president of the association; D. E. Hogshead, of Toccoa, vice president, and John Bratton, of Atlanta, secretary.

MANUFACTURERS' EXHIBIT IN NEW COMMERCE BILL

The plan to install the proposed "made in Atlanta" exhibit in the new chamber of commerce building, formerly the Y. M. C. A. building, when the remodeling of that structure is finished, was approved by the committee of seven representing the manufacturers of Atlanta Monday at the committee's meeting in the chamber of commerce rooms in the Empire building.

The committee asked the directors of the chamber of commerce realty company to make them a proposition for the use of the four top floors in the new building.

In order that an answer to that request, filed Monday, may be formulated, President Wilmer L. Moore, of the chamber of commerce realty company, has called a meeting of the directors of that company, to be held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The matter will be taken up and discussed then.

The manufacturers' committee of seven was in session from 11:30 o'clock until after 1 o'clock. The committee was created at the chamber of commerce dinner to the manufacturers on July 3. The location of the exhibit of Atlanta-made wares has been a perplexing question, it is said, the committee receiving a number of offers.

YOUNG MEN'S POKER GAME STOPPED BY THE POLICE

"I'll cost yer two more to take a peep at this hand, Bo."

"What cher got?"

"Three monarchs of the west."

"Good night, nurse."

The officers stopped and listened, then crept cautiously up to the window and looked under the shade. And it was an honest to goodness poker game.

It was early Sunday morning in a room of 94 Garnett street. Four young men were having a quiet little game after Saturday's pay envelope. But they were not quiet enough, and when the officers made the raid they gave their names as H. J. Randolph, W. T. Payne, T. E. Fowler and J. A. Davis.

They promised Judge Broyles to swear off if he would go easy. The judge took pity and fined them $15.75 instead of binding them over to a higher court.

RESINOL CURED ITCHING ECZEMA

Years of Suffering—Immediate Relief.

Cleveland, O., June 2, 1913.—"About eight years ago my hands would get very red—then little blisters would come with pus in them. They would itch and burn so that I could not sleep at all. I used everything people told me about, and all kinds of blood treatments, but they did me no good. I wore out dozens of pairs of rubber gloves using them when working in water, and still the eczema stayed.

"About three years ago I read about Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment, and at once bought some at the drug store. They gave me immediate relief, and after using two jars of Resinol Ointment and a cake of Resinol Soap, I can honestly say that my hands are cured. It has been three years already since I am cured, and the eczema has not returned. I really can't say enough about Resinol." (Signed) Mrs. Chas. P. Winchester, 3204 Central Ave.

Better proof, even than such a letter, is to try Resinol yourself and see how quickly the trouble disappears. Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap are sold by all druggists. Free trial; Dept. 7-R. Resinol, Baltimore, Md.—(Advt.)

EXPERIMENT STATION TO REMAIN AS HERETOFORE

House Committee Decides to Vote Favorably on $5,000 Appropriation

Georgia's experiment station, located near Griffin, will not be removed to Athens and consolidated with the State College of Agriculture—not within the next two years, at any rate.

Members of the house appropriations committee, yielding to the arguments of the trustees of the station, have decided to report favorably upon a special appropriation of $5,000 a year for 1913-14 for the maintenance of the station.

This will mean that the government's annual appropriation of $30,000 for scientific agricultural research work will be available to the station.

Several days ago it appeared that the appropriations committee would not recommend the appropriation of $7,500 asked by the station trustees, the disposition now being manifested to favor any special appropriations that were not absolutely necessary. When this became known a movement was started to have the station consolidated with the state agricultural college.

The trustees, however, are opposed to this amalgamation and have informed the appropriations committee that by the exercise of strict economy the station can be conducted on an appropriation of $5,000 from the state. A majority of the members of the committee appear to favor such an appropriation and a bill carrying this amount probably will be reported to the house during the present week.

No portion of the federal appropriation is available for maintaining the station. The erection and repair of buildings, and other expenses not incurred in experimental work, must be paid for by the state.

Circles to Meet

A meeting of all the circles of St. Mark's church will be held Tuesday afternoon, July 22, at 4:30 o'clock in the Sunday school room. An interesting program has been arranged and all are urged to be present.

CANDLER COUNTY BILL GETS RECONSIDERATION

However, It Goes to Foot of the Calendar and May Not Come to Vote

By a vote of 92 to 59 the house Monday morning adopted a motion to reconsider its action of last Thursday in voting down the report of the committee on constitutional amendments which recommended the passage of the bill providing for the creation of Candler county.

Soon after the house convened Monday morning Representative Wohwender who on Thursday moved the previous question on the committee report offered a motion that the matter be reconsidered. He explained that in moving the previous question he had not done so with any intention of running the steam roller over the house and declared that he had no desire to prevent the opponents o fthe bill being heard.

Representatives Hardeman and Fullbright opposed reconsideration giving as their reasons that more than half the session of the legislature had passed without the enactment of any important legislation. They held the several new county propositions as responsible for this condition of affairs.

Representatives Blackburn and Gower took issue with these statements and insisted that the business of the house was further advanced than it had been at this period of the session during the past fifteen years.

Although the Candler county bill gets a reconsideration it may not reach a vote at this session of the legislature, for it has been placed at the foot of the calendar. It is believed, however, will make an effort to have it advanced on the calendar.

Representative Moss made an unsuccessful effort to have the house reconsider its action in passing the measure providing for a commission consisting of the governor and three other state house officials to represent the state in claims which citizens might bring against the Tennessee Copper company, of Ducktown, Tenn.

A large number of local bills were introduced in the house Monday.

CHANGE OF MURPHY AVE. OPPOSED BY CITIZENS

A proposal to make Murphy avenue a continuation of Whitehall street by changing its name to Whitehall has aroused opposition from property owners on the street and from friends of the late Anthony Murphy, for whom the street was named.

The petition came before the street committee at its last meeting J. T. Kimbrough, councilman from the Tenth ward, making the suggestion.

Also a move to change the name of McDaniel street to Oxford Terrace is provoking discussion. The petition has not been actually presented, but there are some who want the name changed. Others prefer that it should remain as it is, deploring the tendency to give new names to streets which bear the names of former citizens.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE IS CURABLE

If one-tenth of the letters and statements we have received are true. Some of them include the analytical chemist's figures insuring the genuineness of the cases and the results. They come from all classes, including business and professional men; some are from physicians. The writers do not know us and are not interested in us and would have no motive in writing us other than the truth, and it is absolutely impossible to escape the conclusion forced by these letters, viz: that Bright's Disease is curable and that many of the ninety thousand annually dying from this disease can live on to other terminations.

The truth that these letters and statements carry is of vital interest to Insurance Companies, to the Government and to the people. We could welcome an investigation by the highest court in the land into their genuineness, the motives that prompted them, and the facts they disclose and a judicial decision on them as to the curability of chronic Bright's Disease, alleged to be incurable the world over.

If you have Bright's Disease you owe it to yourself and family to try Fulton's Renal Compound before giving up. It can be had at Edmondson Drug Co.'s, 11 North Broad street and 196 North Pryor street, Atlanta, Ga. (Advt.)

Splendid Savings on Girls' Dresses

The Junior Department---Third Floor

This is perhaps the finest opportunity the season has brought!

For the dresses are those better sorts that mothers and daughters both like, and they are priced often at one-third and, in some instances, at one-fourth of normal prices.

There are some forty in all, divided into two lots.

The wise mother will not wait long after eight o'clock to get to The Junior Department tomorrow.

None of these sent C. O. D; none will be exchanged.

$2.95

For $6.50, $8.50 and $9.50 Dresses

Sizes six to twelve years.

They are linens and ginghams.

White linens and colored linens.

Hand-embroidery is the rule instead of the exception in the trimmings—some show Irish crochet laces.

Belted dresses, with plaited skirts, low neck and short sleeves. Trim, smart affairs, that show they are worth their former prices.

For $4.00, $5.00 and $6.00 Dresses

Sizes six to twelve years.

Of the better grade of percales and Anderson Scotch ginghams—which tells that the colors are thoroughly dependable and that the patterns are the choicest and charmingest that are woven.

You will find hand-embroidery on these, too, and novel touches of folds and buttons. Wish we could hold them up right here for you to see! Belted, plaited skirts.

Girls' Princess Slips of white nainsook and lingerie cloth, variously trimmed with Valenciennes and Torchon laces and embroideries are reduced in this fashion for tomorrow:
Those formerly $3.00 are $2.00.
Those formerly $2.25 and $2.00 are $1.25.
Those formerly $1.25 are $1.00.

39c

For Children's 50c Dresses

Sizes one to six.

More of those best 50c gingham, percale and lawn dresses at 39c.

Mothers who have bought before will welcome the news!

Choose from several styles—long-waisted effects and little straight dresses.

Prettier patterns and neater trimmings are not to be found in 50c dresses; seldom are they found in 65c dresses.

89c

For Boys' $1.00 and $1.25 Suits

Wash suits in sizes two to six years!

Of madras, percale and gingham.

White and colors, and accordingly, little suits for little "Buster" when he is on his good behavior, and others for him to run and play in. Not a one but what will come smilingly from the laundry.

Low neck and short sleeves.

In the party were the Misses Teague, Miss Lipscomb, Messrs. George Barret, Warren Bothwell, Henry McGowan and Mettauer Kenedy.—Augusta Chronicle.

Savannah Debutantes

An unusually large list of debutantes is promised for next winter, many names having been added since the first publication of those announced at the beginning of the summer season, more than a month ago.

Miss Josephine Stewart, who is spending the summer traveling in Europe, after some months abroad will be one of the attractive girls who will make her bow next winter, and Mr. and Mrs. Stewart will probably entertain with a debut party for her. Miss Eloise Knox is another of the attractive debutante, who will also probably be introduced at a reception by Mr. and Mrs. Knox.

It is not yet decided whether Miss Eleanor Cosens will make her debut, nor has Miss Nana Hull's debut been announced.

Miss Delia Lindsay is another whose debut is not positively decided and she may travel for a year in Europe before coming out. Miss Edith Bryson will be one of the charming debutantes of the season.

Others whose debut is anticipated with much interest are Miss Dorothea Karow, Miss Catharine Charlton, Miss Inez Tiedeman, Miss Kate Osborne, Miss Susie Winburn, Miss Katherine Ives, Miss Agnes Reese, Miss Elizabeth Candler, Miss Elizabeth Ravenel.—Savannah News.

Discussion of Woman Question

The large committee of arrangements will present a delightful program at Tarf hall on Tuesday evening at 7:45.

At that time the meeting will be called to order and Dr. Percy J. Starnes will render a program of popular airs on the echo organ. As Dr. Starnes, one of the foremost organizats in the world, is soon to leave the city, and as the echo organ has never been heard before on a strictly public occasion, this will be a great treat.

At 8:15 the speakers will be introduced by Mrs. Peel and will include, among many others, Mr. J. J. Spalding, Dr. Hughlett, Mr. R. L. Hope, Mr. Frank Rice, Mr. J. R. Smith, Mr. R. A. Brooks, Mr. E. R. Black, Hon. Sam Lumpkin Olive, Hon. R. H. Hardman, Hon. H. H. Swift, Hon. W. L. Converse, Hon. Louis E. Wisdom, Mrs. M. L. McClendon, Mrs. W. H. Felton, Mrs. F. S. Whiteside, Mrs. Nellie Peters Black, Miss Rosa Woodbury, Mr. Leonard J. Crossman, Hon. Ernest Neal, et al.

The public is cordially invited and all are assured of an interesting evening. No matter how people feel about it, the ladies believe that such a discussion at this time will be welcomed by all thinking people.

Happenings in Londontown

An awkward situation arose at a dinner given the other evening by the wife of an American magnate, who has a house near Park lane. Among the guests were a lady and gentleman who had been respondent and co-respondent in a divorce case a year or so ago. By an unaccountable and inexcusable blunder, the ex-husband was also invited. After a dignified protest to the hostess, he went off and had dinner by himself at the Ritz.

Lady Cheylesmore is, of course, one of our American peeresses, for she was formerly Miss Elizabeth French, of New York. She is tall and fair, and of dignified mien, and her numerous hobbies include golf and music, especially the opera, whilst she is actively interested in everything to do with the welfare of women of the working classes. It was Lady Cheylesmore who initiated the rag-doll industry among Irish peasantry, which Lord Beaconsfield once owned Hughenden minor, High Wycombe. Lord and Lady Cheylesmore's country home, and the numerous peacocks which disport themselves in the grounds and on the terraces are descendants of the birds that were presented to Disraeli by Queen Victoria.

An exciting scene took place the other evening on a houseboat in the upper reaches of the Thames. The parties concerned are well known in the city, and the fact that one of them had to swim ashore has given rise to much curiosity.

In the list of candidates for election to the Royal Yacht squadron this year was a well known yachtsman whose chief recommendation to become one of the select was his great wealth. But, notwithstanding, that his proposer and seconder were men of great influence, he failed to get elected.

A topic of conversation in the smart set is the absence from all the leading society functions of a lady whose beauty and cleverness have hitherto caused her to be much sought after. Those who profess to know something say that her frequent appearances at race meetings with a member of the house of lords, who is not her husband, is responsible for the cold shouldering she is at present being subjected to.

Rumor has it that a former British ambassador is to be created a peer within the next few weeks.

A book of reminiscences that will undoubtedly create a sensation when published is nearly ready for the publisher. Its author is a lady whose fame is famous both for her beauty and her wit in courts and society circles.

An insurance office with a large connection in various parts of Great Britain contemplates the opening of an industrial assurance branch in Canada at an early date.

The Passing of a Well-Known Southern Hostess

The news of the death of Mrs. Rawlings Lowndes, of Charleston, S. C., caused a very general sadness throughout this city, where she was so well known and loved. Mrs. Lowndes lived here as a girl, and during the lifetime of her first husband, Mr. Barrett Jenkins. Since her second marriage, which was to Colonel Lowndes, of Charleston, she has made her home there, but she has visited her old friends here every year, and always made them welcome at her home in Charleston.

Probably no woman in the south was more generally known in the social life of the entire country. For years past Mr. and Mrs. Lowndes have been spending their summers at White Sulphur Springs, where they were central figures in the unique social life of the springs. In Charleston they kept open house for their friends always, and were noted as entertainers. But always, wherever she was, Mrs. Lowndes was a conspicuous figure, and the center of any group. Handsome and of a stately style of beauty that attracted admiration; always charming in conversation, magnetic and fascinating to all who came in contact with her, she was a woman in a thousand, and one who was admired by the most casual stranger and "loved tenderly by all who were privileged to know her intimately.

Mrs. Lowndes was one of a charming and brilliant coterie of women, most of whom have gone to the Great Beyond, but who made their impress upon their day and generation in a way that will never be forgotten. There are many today who, hearing of her passing from this life, will recall many happy hours in the past and many occasions when this charming woman, and others like her, were the life and soul of any company they happened to be in, and like all truly exceptionally charming women, they were as lovely to the smallest child as to the most distinguished personage, and their charm was felt by all. And so, today, when the news of this death brings sorrow to so many, there will be much that memory brings back to many homes, countless sweet memories of the past to mingle with the sadness occasioned by the passing from this world of one so calculated to add to the enjoyment of all around her.

Among the Augustans who went to Charleston to be present at the funeral services yesterday were Mrs. Hale Barrett, Mrs. William H. Barrett and Mrs. C. Henry Cohen, all of whom were devoted friends of Mrs. Lowndes. Mrs. Thurston Crawford, of Greenaboro, also joined them en route to Charleston. Mrs. Lowndes' last visit to Augusta was about a month ago, when she visited Mrs. W. H. Barrett. She was not well during her visit, and had never regained her strength after returning home. The most cordial sympathy goes out to Colonel Lowndes in this hour of his great bereavement from the many hearts who knew and loved this charming woman.—Augusta Chronicle.

A Little Turning Out of Women's White Dresses At $1.00

Women will make quick work of the buying of these Dresses tomorrow—only 150 in the lot, and Dresses of $5 and $7.50 value, as you will readily observe.

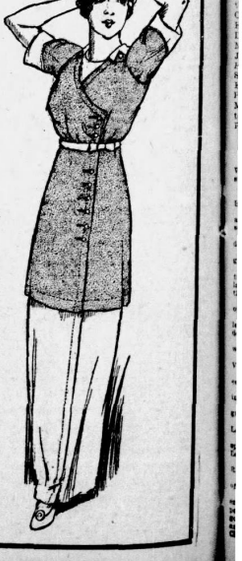
There are three styles to select from—lingerie frocks—one is prettily trimmed with lace, the other with embroidery; the third is a dainty frock of allover embroidery with an effective trimming of lace.

All sizes in the collection—and an opportunity that is rare, indeed, for 150 women.

$5 and $7.50 Dresses at $1.00

More of These Pretty Russian Dresses Have Just Come

Their Price Is $1.95



This will be a bit of welcome news for those who have been asking for these Dresses since the last shipment was ex*hausted—fresh* and delightfully new are these, just opened, and a greater assortment of colors than we have had before.

Made exactly like the illustration—the waist and upper portion of skirt is of pink, blue, lavender or rose linene, the lower portion of skirt of white pique—a belt at waist-line of white braid; button-trimmed.

They are delightfully charming Dresses, as is attested by the many shipments that have come and gone at once.

Priced at $1.95 Each

What Anne Ritten house Says

"I wish you would tell me exactly how the women of today get that transparent effect at the front of their blouses," said a curious woman to a well-known lady's maid who was supposed to know the secret of the most smartly dressed women in New York.

The woman was a country mouse, and she wanted to know. She had observed with keen interest and much curiosity the way that women went about with the tops of their gowns unlined, their sleeves transparent, and the vest or demisette of lace or net that ran to the waist and did not disclose the edge of a corset, the presence of a corset cover, and yet were not unduly immodest.

The lady's maid not only knew, but was glad to tell. She had the haughty and correct manner of one who is accustomed to put perfumed garments of silk and linen on those who ride in motors and follow the pleasurable paths of life. To put her accent and her manner on paper is not possible, but her words are illuminating.

"First," said she, "you slip on an oppers vest of Italian silk which has no shoulder straps, but is held into the body at the bust line with an elastic, not a ribbon; the latter slips, the former does not. This vest may be white, flesh color or flesh pink.

"Over this goes the corset of thin white brocaded silk or elastic webbing. It is low in the bust, rarely extending two inches above the waist line. When a woman has a bit too much flesh above the corset she adds a brassiere, but not the kind with shoulder straps. She has one made of satin, ribbon or clunv lace about four inches wide, feather boned at back, sides and front, and hooked together down the front. This holds in the flesh better than a rigid corset would for it does not push it still higher into the bust. Also—and this is a strong point—it is half transparent and of fancy materials, and it may show through the blouse without marring the effect."

The Pink Corset Cover.

"So far, your information is enlightening. I begin to see how it could be done, for I did not eliminate the high corset or its heavy brassiere of coarse net or linen or embroidery. But is the gown worn directly over these, and is there no corset cover?" were the eager queries of the country mouse.

"It depends on what kind of blouse or gown is to be worn," answered the lady's maid. "If the whole blouse is transparent, then one adds a flesh pink corset cover of chiffon cloth with shoulder straps of white lace and a bit of white lace across the front caught up with tiny satin roses.

"These sound luxurious, and a year ago they were, for Paris was their birthplace and the few that were brought to this country were sold at the usual heavy price of importations. But soon the American shops began to make them by the hundred and there have been recent sales at which one could buy such a corset cover for a dollar and a half whereas the former price was $12.

"These corset covers are made on slim lines and have little fullness, for fathers and drawing strings and pleats are not admitted into a modern piece of underlinen. It fits the bust and the waist and its straps over the shoulders are made short enough to hold the garment in place and not to fall down over the shoulders as ordinary straps will do."

Few Corset Covers Worn.

"But what becomes of the corset cover we have always worn," was the next question.

"They do not exist with the smartly dressed women," was the immediate answer. "They were cut too high in the neck for the modern style of blouse and, although the flesh pink corset cover over could not be worn under an ordinary white frock or a one-piece frock, intended for the morning, neither would there be an old-fashioned corset cover. To tell you the truth, the majority of women have discarded them in order that there would be nothing over the shoulders.

"The chemise or Italian silk vest with its elastic band fits snugly above the bust, and the arms, and the brassiere of lace or satin covers the corset and holds in any abundant flesh. Therefore, there is no need for a corset cover for there is nothing to cover. That garment was invented to hide an ugly knitted shirt and a high coutil corset. With the elimination of knitted underwear and the incoming of the low corset with a brassiere, the corset cover becomes a superfluous garment."

THE EVENING STORY

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

RAISING SAMMY

Probably nobody knew better than Mark Horton what the coming of Sammy meant to Miss Tippett. Mary Tippett and Mark had lived in adjoining homes for over fifteen years on terms pleasantly neighborly. It was Mark who kept Mary's lawn like a velvet carpet through the summer months, and it was Mark who shoveled broad paths around her home through the snowdrifts of winter.

Everybody said it was a downright shame such an exceptionally nice pair did not marry. Mark, in the prime of life with a comfortable income, had not a soul in the world to call his own. Mary was similarly situated, save that she had a cousin out in Kansas whom she had not seen since girlhood. Neither thought the other lonely, but, that was before the morning Mary called to Mark over the hedge dividing their lawns and told him about Sammy.

His eyes beheld a new strange Mary.

There was an open letter in her hand, and as Mark drew near his eyes beheld a new, strange Mary. Her cheeks were softly flushed, her lips tremulous and her gray eyes danced in such a beautiful manner Mark's astonished "Well, by Jove!" was almost audible. He stood and stared at her, speechless, when he reached the hedge, but when she cried impetuously, "Oh, Mark Horton, such a wonderful thing—I'm going to have a boy to raise!" her transformation was completely forgotten.

She laughed at his amazement; read him the letter which informed her of the death of the cousin in Kansas; of the little boy, fatherless and motherless; of the letter the mother had left beseeching Mary to care for him.

"I'm going to Kansas right away," she announced importantly as she finished reading. "Won't it be great, Mark, having a child around? At times I'm lonely."

And that was the first Mark knew about loneliness ever coming near Mary Tippett.

Mary was back from Kansas with the boy, and in her happy importance Mark again saw Mary utterly new to him. Something stirring within him for a moment kept his eyes from the child. When at last he looked at him, and the little fellow had shyly shaken hands with him and was making up with Mark's dog, Mark said to Mary: "He'll be a good looking youngster, Mary, when we get those crazy curls cut off."

Mary's proud glance left the boy and she flashed around at him. "Mary Horton, cut that beautiful hair which they tell me his mother was so proud of! Why? Well, I should say not! I think he looks so sweet."

"Sweet! What in thunderation has a boy got to do with looking sweet? For heaven's sake, make him manly, Mary; make him manly!" Better let me run down to the barber's and have that wool taken off right away."

But after one long, indignant glance Mary turned away scornfully. Thus the first discordant note crept into the peaceful friendship of years.

In the year that followed they had many a jangle over the raising of Sammy. The soft, fair curls, the Russian suits and the suits with elaborate collars that Mary chose to dress him in Mark could not tolerate.

"My goodness," Mary," he would storm, "he's too tall a boy for those foolish clothes. Be sensible and put him in trousers like other boys of his height. He's no baby, woman!"

But Mary, whose greatest delight it was to beautifully iron the white Russian suits, snapped out at him, "I'm going to keep him a baby just as long as I can, Mark Horton, so there! And I wish, Mark," Mary's head went up haughtily, "that you would try to remember that Sammy is not your boy."

Mary's eyes were stormy, her lips were set in a firm, straight line when she left him. It was the first controversy over the upbringing of Sammy that did not end with a laugh from Mark and a smile from Mary, and when Mark went back through the opening in the hedge there was something strange and sad tugging at his heart—something that kept him on his veranda motionless for many moments, even his dog nosing his cold muzzle under his hand unnoticed. He was looking down a long, long road, called "Might Have Been," over and over Mary's remarks rang in his ears. At last, with a long sigh, he said sadly, "No, he's not my boy, not alone, Mary's alone, after all. I've missed the best in life."

He never referred to Sammy's curls and Russian suits after that. In fact, Mary's side of the hedge saw little of him. Mary sat upon her veranda and wondered. She never mentioned Sammy except in a casual way until the opening of school in September, when she informed Mark she was going to send Sammy.

He was silent for a moment, then growled out, "Going to send him as a boy or a baby?"

Mary's answer came on the day school opened, when Sammy took his first steps on the educational road garbed in a particularly well "done up" Russian suit and with his fair curls flying.

His first day was a short one. Mark was working in his garden around 2 o'clock. Mary had just called to him that if Sammy came she had gone visiting, when a dejected little figure came slowly through the opening in the hedge and back to Mark in his garden. It did no take a second glance to tell that a childish heart was sore.

With only a "Hello, son!" Mark threw down his rake, sat on the steps of his back stoop, and in a moment the tale of woe, just what Mark had feared, came out with sobs and tears.

"Uncle Mark, I hate school! I hate toys, an' I hate girls worse. They all jes' looked at me an' laughed, an' called me 'little girl,' an' 'Miss Mary's baby,' an'—Oh, Uncle Mark, I won't go back, I won't—I won't! They'll call me Miss Mary's baby, an' I jes' want to be Tippett's kid, like they call boys at school. An' Uncle Mark, I'm—I'm goin' to—cut my hair off."

The upraised, tear-drenched eyes were defiant. Mark glanced for a second at Mary's home, then at his watch, his eyes as defiant as Sammy's. Then he got up, shook himself and squared his shoulders aggressively. "Come on, son!" he said briefly.

When they left the barber shop Sammy's "sweet" curls were stuffed in Mark's pocket, and Sammy's face was one happy smile as his hands kept going up to his close-cropped head.

Mark paused irresolutely in front of a department store. He looked at the hated Russian suit. "Only fit for a five-year-old," he muttered. Once again he said, "Come on, son!" They turned into the department store.

In the children's wear he said to the clerk: "This boy is eight; looks ten. Give me a ten-year-old coat suit."

It was a very brave little figure, storm completely of all the habiliments of babyhood, that danced in Mary's gate ahead of Mark. Even the sight of Aunt Mary on the veranda failed to check boyish joy. He dashed forward with a jubilant whoop. And Mark—

One glance at the stately figure which leaned forward with a great start at sight of transformed Sammy and Mark's wonderful courage went tumbling to zero. But he had to face her. "You can get as mad as you like about it, Mary, it's done, and I'm mighty glad of it," he said as he folded his arms and awaited the storm.

But to his everlasting amazement Mary smiled, smiled broadly, and laughed. "I'm mighty glad, too, Mark," she said simply. "I'm tired, and you've saved me a trip to the barber's." As he looked at her dumbly she became serious. "Mark, I learned this afternoon what an old goose I've been. I was behind the boy when he came home from school. I said to it that he did not see me, and I heard all about 'Miss Mary's baby.' Bless his heart, he kept his head up like a little man, but I could just feel how it hurt! I knew all at once that all the time you had been right. You know more about raising him than I do, Mark!"

Mary's concession was made sweetly, and Mark's eyes became very tender as he looked from Sammy strutting about the lawn to the sweet-faced woman in front of him.

"Mary," very softly Mark said, "don't you think we might make a better job of it if we formed a genuine partnership—a life partnership?"

Mary looked at him a moment silently. "Don't know but what you're right there, too, Mark." Then she smiled tremulously.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

(Copyright, 1913, by J. G. Lloyd.)

In all his life Peter Rabbit had never been so disappointed. Here he was in the Old Pasture, about which he had dreamed and thought so long, and in reaching which he had had such a narrow escape from Hooty the Owl, and yet he was unhappy. The fact is Peter was more unhappy than he could remember ever to have been before. Not only was he unhappy, but he was in great fear. Yes, sir, Peter was in great fear. The worst of it was he was in fear of an enemy who could go wherever he could go himself.

You see, it was this way: Peter had expected to find some enemies in the Old Pasture. He had felt quite sure that fierce old Mr. Goshawk was to be watched for, and perhaps Mr. Redtail and one or two others of the Hawk family. He knew that Granny and Reddy Fox had lived there once upon a time and might come back if things got too unpleasant for them on the Green Meadows, now that old Man Coyote had made his home there. But Peter didn't worry about any of these dangers. He was used to them, was Peter. He had been dodging them ever since he could remember. A friendly bramble bush, a little patch of briars or an old stone wall near was all that Peter needed to feel perfectly safe from these. But now he was in danger wherever he went, for he had an enemy who could go wherever he could, and it seemed to Peter that this enemy was following him all the time. Who was it? Why, it was a great big old rabbit with a very short temper, who, because he had lived there for a long time felt that he owned the Old Pasture and that Peter had no right there.

Now in spite of all his trouble Peter had seen enough of the Old Pasture to think it a very wonderful place, a very wonderful place indeed. He had seen just enough to want to see more. You know how very curious Peter is. It seemed to him that he just couldn't go back to the dear old briar patch or the Green Meadows until he had seen everything to be seen in the Old Pasture. So he couldn't make up his mind to go back home, but stayed and stayed, hoping each day that the old gray rabbit would let him alone.

But the old gray rabbit didn't do anything of the kind. He seemed to take the greatest delight in waiting until Peter thought that he had found a corner of the Old Pasture where he would be safe, and then in stealing there when Peter was trying to take a nap, and driving him out. Twice Peter had tried to fight, but the old gray rabbit was too big for him. He knocked all the wind out of poor Peter with a kick from his big hind legs, and then with his sharp teeth he tore Peter's coat.

Poor Peter! His coat had already been badly torn by the cruel claws of Hooty the Owl, and Old Mother Nature hadn't had time to mend it when he fought with the old gray rabbit. After the second time Peter didn't try to fight again. He just tried to keep out of the way. And he did, too. But in doing it he lost so much sleep and he had so little time to eat that he grew thin and thin and thinner, until, with his torn clothes, he looked like a scarecrow.

And still he hated to give in

When there was still so much to see.
"Perseverance, I was taught, will win,
And so I will persist," said he.

And he did persist day after day, until at last he felt that he really must give it up. He had stretched out wearily on a tiny sunning bank in the farthest corner of the Old Pasture, and had just about made up his mind that he would go back that very night to the dear old briar patch on the Green Meadows, when a tiny twig behind him made him jump to his feet with his heart in his mouth. But instead of the angry face of the old gray rabbit he saw—what do you think? Why, two of the softest, gentlest eyes peeping at him from behind a big fern.

The Cultivated Person

(From "Letters from a Father to His Daughter Entering College," by Charles Franklin Thwing, published by the Platt & Peck Co., New York.)

The cultivated person is the person who appreciates the best which life offers. Appreciation is both intellectual, emotional, volitional. It is discrimination plus sympathy. It contains a basis of admiration. It recognizes and adopts the best in ever vachievement—the arts, literature, poetry, sculpture, painting, architecture. The cultivated person seeks out the least unworthy in the unworthy and the most worthy in that which is at all worthy. The person of cultivation knows, compares, relates, judges. He has standards, and he applies them to things, measures, methods. His moral nature is fine, and his intellectual nature is honest. He is filled with reverence for true truth, duty, righteousness. He is humble, for he knows how great is truth, how imperfective is duty. He is modest, for he respects others. He is patient with others and himself, for he knows how unattainable is the right. He can be silent when in doubt. He can speak alone when truth is unpopular. He is willing to lose his voice in the "choir invisible." He is a man of proportion, reality, sincerity, honesty, justice, temperance, intellectual and ethical.

Cracker Club in Memphis for Three Games With Turtle Clan

MEMPHIS CLUB LEADING IN WINS OF PAST WEEK

Bernhard Got His Club to Going Grand and Then Won 6 and Lost 1—Chattanooga Proved Big Loser—Atlanta Played Better Than .500

The Memphis club set the pace in the Southern league race in the games of the past week with 6 wins and but 1 defeat. This big spurt was against the Chattanooga club and served to pull the Lookouts from the first division and make a berth for Birmingham, which club got away with 4 wins and 2 defeats, 2 tie games being mixed in.

Atlanta played better than .500 ball, having credit for 4 wins and 3 defeats. This served to hold the club right at the same old place, Montgomery and Mobile doing exactly the same class of work. With the three leaders holding their own, Birmingham and Memphis were the only clubs to better their standing and show any gains.

Five of the eight teams played better than .500 ball, this being made possible by the extremely poor game put up by Nashville and Chattanooga. Between them these two clubs won just 3 a long way toward giving several of the games and dropped 11, all of which went other clubs a bunch of wins.

As has been predicted all along, the Birmingham club is coming along nicely and it appears more certain than ever that Molesworth will be right in the fight for first place when the end of the season arrives. The game put up by Atlanta, while erratic, served to keep the team in the place it has occu*pied for some days past.*

Here are the scores for the past week:

Monday: Atlanta 12, Montgomery 7; Memphis 5, Nashville 4; Chattanooga 1, Mobile 0; Birmingham 5, New Orleans 3.

Tuesday: Montgomery 7, Atlanta 1; Memphis 6, Nashville 1; Birmingham 3, New Orleans 0; Mobile 5, Chattanooga 1.

Wednesday: Atlanta 4, Montgomery 2; Mobile 1, Chattanooga 0; Memphis 4, Nashville 3; Birmingham 8, New Orleans 8.

Thursday: New Orleans 6, Atlanta 5; Mobile 0, Birmingham 0; Memphis 3, Chattanooga 0.

Friday: Atlanta 11, New Orleans 1; Memphis 2, Chattanooga 1; Nashville 8, Montgomery 5; Montgomery 4, Nashville 2; Birmingham 11, Mobile 7.

Saturday: Atlanta 6, New Orleans 2; Montgomery 6, Nashville 0; Birmingham 5, Mobile 3, Mobile 7, Birmingham 2; Memphis 2, Chattanooga 1.

Sunday: New Orleans 3, Atlanta 1; Chattanooga 2, Memphis 0; Mobile 4, Birmingham 0; Montgomery 1, Nashville 0.

All Arranged For Cup Race

NEW YORK, July 21.—A series of races for the American cup will be sailed in eastern waters during September, 1914. This was formally announced by the cup committee of the New York Yacht club. The Royal Ulster Yacht club, of Belfast, acting for Sir Thomas Lipton cabled the New York yacht club committee that the conditions prescribed by the New York Yacht club had been accepted and signed and were on the way to America.

On receipt of the messag: the club officers announced that the tentative dates for the race had been selected as follows: Thursday, Saturday and Tuesday, September 10, 12 and 15, and to continue succeeding Thursdays, Saturdays and Tuesdays until three out of five races had been won by one of the contesting yachts. It was also stated that the races would be sailed under practically the same conditions that have governed former American cup matches with the exception that they are to be held under the "present racing rules and rule of measurement now in force in the New York Yacht club."

This latter clause refers to the technical methods of measurements and other details incidental to the cup race and not to the size of the yachts. On this latter point the cup committee maintained a policy of extreme silence. It was said, however, that the cup defending club was not committed to either a 75 or 90-foot yacht and would not make public announcement of its decision in this matter until later.

It is generally understood among members of the club who are in close touch with the cup committee that the cup challenger and defender will be 75-footers and that the races will be sailed off Sandy Hook, although there is the possibility that the twelve months intervening before the match may cause alterations in the plans as now tentatively arranged.

Atlanta Will Meet Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 21.—Billy Smith's Crackers arrive here to be entertained for three games by the Memphis club on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. In the first contest of the series Price and Chapman will probably do the defensive work for the Crackers, while Kissinger and Snell will bear the brunt for the Turtles.

Should Smith decide that Price had enough work in the first game with New Orleans he will use Dent as his boxman.

EVANS AND WOOD FAVORED TO TAKE WESTERN HONORS

CHICAGO, July 21.—One hundred and fifty golfers, eighty-one of them from Chicago and vicinity were billed to start in the elimination round of the fifteenth annual amateur championship tournament of the Western Golf association at the Homewood Country club today. The round is at 18 holes. The lowest sixty-four scorers will be eligible to compete in the qualifying round at 18 holes tomorrow morning, in which the lowest 32 scorers will qualify for the first round for the championship to be staged in the afternoon.

Charles Evans, Jr., of Chicago, the present champion, and Warren K. Wood, also of this city, rule favorites for the championship. Last year at Denver, Evans defeated Wood one up in the final and later in the semi-final round of the National Amateur championship, Evans won again 4 and 3. Evans and Wood are in better shape than any of the other Chicago players, by reason of their trip recently to the Pacific coast, which gave them a lot of good practice.

Judged by his play in the Olympic cup contest on Saturday, Howard B. Lee, of Detroit, appears one of the best of the visiting players. Allis, who has been Wisconsin champion for two years, should be able, to stand the strain of a championship. Raymond Thorne, Missouri champion, E. S. Armstrong, of Los Angeles, R. W. Hodge, of Kansas City, and the Rev. Paul R. Talbot are among the visitors who are expected to keep in the running.

CHASE DEAL NOT SHADY

CHICAGO, July 21.—No official action will be taken by the American league in connection with Frank Chance's complaint charging the Chicago Americans with misrepresenting the physical condition of Zeider and the playing ability of Borton, for whom Chance traded Hal Chase. Ban Johnson so announced today.

"It will be impossible to take action compensating New York for alleged loss," said Johnson, "for the reason that Chance wanted Zeider more than any other man. He had his choice of at least six Chicago players, and picked Zeider and Borton."

STARS OF ONE DAY

Derrill Pratt: Batted .500 by getting two hits out of four trials. He made one error in nine chances.

Yerkes: Was up three times and landed on one.

Doc Johnston, of Cleveland: Hit safely once in four trips to the plate.

Joe Jackson: Could only hit safely one time in four times up.

Tris Speaker: Hit for .333 when he hit safely one time out of three times at bat.

HOW CLUBS PLAY TODAY

MOBILE, Ala., July 21.—Nashville opens a three-game series with Mobile at Monroe field today. Fleharty will pitch for Nashville, with Gibson behind the bat. Hoag is scheduled to pitch for Mobile, with Schmidt at the receiving end. There has been a slow rain all day and prospects for a game are poor.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 21.—The Birmingham baseball team will open in Montgomery today for a series of three games, which will be the last played by Molesworth's squad here this season. The visitors arrived from Mobile this morning and Evans will hurl the first of today's game for the Birminghamers, with Mayer behind the bat. Manager Dobbs announced that Manning will go in the box for the home club and Donahue will catch. The weather is cloudy and a little more pleasant than last week.

NEW ORLEANS, July 21.—Chattanooga made its second appearance of the season on local grounds yesterday, losing the first of a four-game series. Kroh for the visitors with Street back of the plate and Walker and Adams for New Orleans were the batteries. The weather was cloudy.

Waugh Gets Win

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 21.—Bobby Waugh, of Fort Worth, Tex., won from Jack Redmond, of Milwaukee, here in the ten-round main event of boxing when the tenth round of a scheduled 15-round bout when the Milwaukee boxer's seconds threw in towel into the ring ,to prevent a knockout, Redmond being virtually helpless.

OLD FASHIONED SLUGGING HELPS PUT SAINTS IN THIS BIG RACE

Terrific hitting by Hemphill, Hinchman, Rehg and Riggert, and the air-tight defense of the snappy infield, have kept the St. Paul team of the American association fighting for a place at the top of the race in the big, powerful minor league.

The pitching staff isn't very good, although "Dixie" Walker, the old Washington heaver, has shown flashes of sensational hurling, while Rieger and the veteran Laroy have pitched some good games.

But the one big reason for the Saints occupying third place in one of the hottest races ever staged in the A. A. has been the terrific hitting of the outfield and the clever defensive playing of the infield.

Game after game have the Saints apparently been defeated. Two and three pitchers have been driven from the mound by their opponents, when a vi*cious rally by Hinchman, Hemphill and* Rehg, Ruggert, Autrey, Scott and James, and the team would score enough to win.

fielder Scott, who has shown wonderful

The sensation of the Saints is in*form all year.* Scott belongs to the Boston American league club and is with the Saints for seasoning. He will probably be returned to Boston this fall.

Clarke Loses Debut Battle

NEW ORLEANS, July 21.—The Crackers made it an even break with the Pels Sunday when they lost the first game and were robbed of the second game of a double bill by rain.

The second game stood 4 to 0 in favor of Atlanta in the third round, when rain flooded the grounds and play had to be called.

In this inning Breuner was being batted all over the lot, and Agler, the first man to face him, had come up again when the rain came.

Price was unhittable, and only one Pel had gotten to first base on a pass.

The first game was, however, a different story. Clarke, the Crackers' new recruit from Washington, tossed the game to the Birds in the first inning, throwing wild to first twice and making one wild pitch, which coupled with two singles, did the work. Outside of this, however, his control was fair. He did not walk a man during the rest of the game.

They gleaned only five hits from his delivery and were not there in the pinch. In the seventh round they had an excellent chance to score when, with one gone, Chapman singled, Dunn fanned and Manush walked. Agler rolled a slow one and seemingly beat it to first, but was called out. There was a vigorous protest on this and other decisions of Umpire Fifield.

CHANGES FOR JUST A DAY

Both Mobile and Montgomery copped their games on Sunday, while the Cracker sand the Barons lost. The two top clubs pulled away slightly from the other first division contenders. Chattanooga climbed within a game and a half of the first division by defeating Memphis.

Eddie Plank scored a shutout for the Athletics against the Browns, while ..... edged up within 12 points of second place when they walloped Chicago.

The National league had an off day all around.

One League Closes

ERIE, Pa., July 21.—The reorganized Interstate league season came to an un*expected ending* here Sunday, with Erie a second pennant winner, finishing the abbreviated schedule with a percentage of 1,000. The four-club circuit composed of Youngstown, Akron, Wheeling and Erie prove a losing proposition.

Thomasville Goes Well, Despite Bad Injuries

THOMASVILLE, Ga., July 21.—Man*ager Dudley,* of the Thomasville baseball team, has every reason to be proud of his Hornets, as they have been playing fine ball of late. Seeming to re*alize* how much depended upon them, with Dudley and Murphy, two of the team's star players, too crippled to be in the games, the boys have put up their best efforts and the results reflect great credit upon them.

In the games played with Brunswick during the past week Roth's four hits in four times at bat, two of them home runs, is a record for the league in one game and was some playing by the young southpaw.

Manager Dudley expects to be back in the game Monday, but it may be some time yet before Murphy gets back to his old place on short, as his crippled ankle is not yet well. Wolffe, of Albany, who is playing in his stead, has made some very classy stops at short and also scores well.

Motordrome Promoters Put on Race of 26 Miles—Other Features

Piloting a motorcycle around a board track for three to five miles at a clip of ninety miles an hour looks possible, but to race for twenty-six miles at a break-neck speed is something else. However, such is possible and will be attempted in the big Marathon race at *the motordrome track on Tuesday even*ing, when ten riders will circle the quarter-mile track just 105 times in an effort to take the $500 prize money.

The Marathon event is the big feature of the Tuesday night card, though there are plenty of other big events which go to make the program the best and most sensational yet arranged. There will be the usual motordrome purse affair; Tex Richards will try a mile against time, and a match race between some of the best at the track will be put over.

It is the Marathon event which is attracting the attention of all concerned. Such a race, with so many riders on the track, has never before been attempted, and, should it go through, there will be *other motor pro*moters to put it on. The whole interest and excitement in motor racing comes from the dashes when one rider attempts to pass another, or when there is danger of a mix-up. These will be numerous in the match Tuesday night.

When there are ten riders on the track at the same time there is bound to be a lot of danger in the starting of spurts. The track is not wide enough to accommodate more than four wheels abreast, and to get by in a maddening rush the racers will have to take the bank mighty high and at the risk of hitting some wheel as he passes. There will be numerous stops during the contest, none of the tanks carrying enough gas and oil to run such a lengthy affair. This makes it look something like a big automobile event, with the machines often stopping at the pits to take on supplies.

CRACKERS ARE OUTHIT

In the past series, which resulted in an even break with the tail-enders, the Atlanta bunch was outhit by their opponents, but in the field the Crackers showed up to much better advantage, playing two errorless games and making only five bobbles in all, while the Pels made twelve.

Atlanta made 30 hits and New Orleans made 32.

Dalton Gets Game

DALTON, Ga., July 21.—Dalton defeated Kingston in an uninteresting game of baseball Saturday afternoon, winning easily by a score of 11 to 3. The locals made four runs, enough to win, in the first inning, and the visitors never had a chance. With perfect support, Lasater, pitching for the locals, would have easily secured a shutout.

FLAN FIGHT ON OUTLAWS

NEWYORK, July 21.—Baseball circles here are interested in reports that organized baseball was planning to head off outlaw opposition by placing clubs of strong minor leagues in cities where the field now is exclusively held by either the National or the American league. Brooklyn, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Detroit, Cleveland and Washington were the cities named where either the International league or the Ameri*can association might be placed.* No representatives of the organized game could be found who would confirm the reports that such an intention was in the minds of the big league men. President Ebbetts of the Brooklyn club was quoted as saying something of the sort had been discussed.

WASHINGTON PLAYERS NEAR DEATH IN WATER

CHICAGO, Ill., July 21.—Five members of the Washington Americans narrowly escaped drowning in the heavy surf in Lake Michigan yesterday. Walter Johnson, Ainsmith, Henry and Laporte were caught in the undertow and got back after a hard struggle. Gedeon was dashed against a pier and stunned.

ATLANTA BOYS DEVELOP AS BEST OF ATHLETES

CAMP GREENBRIER, W. Va., July 21.—John Hopkins, son of Hon. Linton C. Hopkins, of Atlanat, is proving a sensation in athletics at the big boys' camp here. In a recent novice track meet young Hopkins proved to be the champion. He won the greatest number of events in his class, getting the honor for all-round good work. He did well in the dashes and starred in the jumps. Young Hopkins is spending the summer at the camp here with many other Atlanta boys.

Other athletes at this camp are divided into classes, according to age. Younk Hopkins is in the junior class that range from thirteen to fifteen years of age. Hopkins is also captain of the Atlanta team that is doing good work in the camp lezgue. This boy is going to be one of the best athletes that Atlanta has ever turned out, and has really got all the earmarks of a big leaguer. He plays a good game of tennis, swims like a duck and has lots of confidence, not conceit, and he does a great deal toward the upbuilding of the Atlanta athletic standard. Other boys from Atlanta are Jack Cohen, Harry Stearns, Cliff Hatcher, Edgar and John McRae. All of these boys are entered in the tennis tournaments and track meets that will come off during the summer and they all bid fair to make a name for themselves in the camp history.

Harry Stearns, son of H. L. Stearns of Atlanta, was the midget all-around champion last year, and he is going good this year. However, he will not run in the midget class, but will this year be ranked as a junior, in which class he has an excellent chance for again being the class champion. This boy is one of the best athletes in the whole camp, and he like Hopkins, is an athlete of the deep water variety. It is needless to comment on the work he did last year. He won 16 out of 17 events, and also did good work in the tennis tournament.

Jack Cohen is about the best tennis player at the camp and in the tournament that is now being played he is in the final rank of the best players in camp, including associates. He is an extra good doubles player and that is where he is starring now. At the net he is steady and has a slow but a sure serve. With a little practice of real tennis and a year or so of growth he will rank with the best players of all classe in his home town.

The entire Atlanta crowd is having a fine time and every day brings something new to the boys to do. Swimming, tennis, baseball, trap shooting, canoeing and boating form the main line of sports. The big field series of the summer will be played on the 29th and 30th of this month and what the Yale-Harvard and Tech-Georgia games are to these colleges, the big Ridge-Greenbrier series are to the campers. The article of ball that is played by these two camps is much above the average in the play of the players that compose the two teams. On the Blue Ridge team there are such players as Ted Pendleton, Pitchers Wood and Swofford, of the Princeton varsity baseball team; Wood, of the University of Virginia, and other players that have and are now playing baseball on their respective alma mater teams and who are at these two camps for training purposes during the summer. On the Greenbrier team there is an equal amount of good material. Paul, of Charleston college, is playing first base; Bradberry, of the Harvard varsity, is playing second; Rhette, of the Episcopal High school, is at shortstop, while George Eckert, star third baseman of the Sewanee nine, finishes out the infield, with Cameron, another Sewanee player, holding down the catching job. Other players on this team are *Pope, of Davidson; Foster, of Hampden-*Sidney, and Tolley, of Sewanee.

But where the real local interest lies in the fact that Harry Collier, old Tech star, and the young fellow who was offered a very flattering contract with the Macks, is doing the twirling work on the mound for the camp. He is doing great work, and will return to college again this fall. Both teams are in great shape, and last year played a fourteen-inning, 2 to 1 game. The camp idea is a great thing for boys, and the Atlanta boys are getting the great shape for the winter's work. They will return to the city about September 1. There are all told thirteen in the Atlanta crew.

Hurt in Polo Game, Britisher Is Dead

LONDON, July 21.—Although polo is popularly regarded as a dangerous game to play, the first fatality in connection with the game here, where it has been played regularly since 1874, has been recorded. Lieutenant Harrod died yesterday from injuries received when his pony threw him in a match at Roehampton, on Thursday. There have been only three other polo fatalities in the entire history of the game in England.

Walter Johnson Offers to Hurl Every Other Game After September First—Mackmen Slump, but It Did No Damage, as Rival Clubs Also Fell Off

NEW YORK, July 21.—Individuals more than clubs figured as points of saillent interest in the baseball history of last week. The change in the management of the world's champions, the Cobb suspension, the return of Ping Walsh to the game, the advent of the latest "highest priced" ball player in Chappelle, the trouble that came to the Chase deal and the fistic bout on the St. Louis bench at a game between the Giants and Cardinals in New York—such developments were sufficient to keep the enthusiasts from deviating their attention to the progress of the league races.

The games from day to day brought their usual developments in the way of ups and downs for various clubs, the "ups" coming chiefly in the way of the Pittsburgs in the National league and the Washingtons in the American, while prominent in the "down" list were St. Louis in the National and Philadelphia, Cleveland and Boston in the American. Perhaps the slump of the Mackmen was the most prominent outstanding feature in the American league race. The former world's champions dropped six out of ten games. That their lead was not reduced to any notable extent was due to the fact that Cleveland lost almost as many games as the first place occupants. While Plank and Bender each pitched one good game, the belief that weakness was developing in the leaders' twirling staff was borne out by the week's happenings.

JOHNSON TO WORK.

Belief that the American league race is not an open one, might be prevalent were there any clubs within possible striking distance which had shown form consistent enough to *warrant expecta*tions of a change in the standing. Likely bidders for honors against the Mackmen seem to be Washington and Chicago. The Senators played brilliant ball all week, dropping only one contest in six. Walter Johnson is reported as having offered to pitch every other day after September if his club appears to have a look-in.

The White Sox are showing improvement. Their inner defense is working smoothly, while the outfield can hardly help being strengthened by Chapman, who has shown enough in the few games he has played to make Chicagoans enthusiastic over him.

The deposition of Jake Stahl in midseason after the club under his management had won a league pennant and a world's title was the sensation of the baseball week. The change to Carrigan apparently has not affected the playing of the club. Detroit braced considerably during the week. St. Louis thrived off New York, but fared poorly with Griffith's men. The New Yorks split even.

Looking over the National league situation, the efforts of Pittsburg to climb into first recorded. Hurt in Polo Game, Britisher Is Dead

LONDON, July 21.—Although polo is popularly regarded as a dangerous game to play, the first fatality in connection with the game here, where it has been played regularly since 1874, has been recorded. Lieutenant Harrod died yesterday from injuries received when his pony threw him in a match at Roehampton, on Thursday. There have been only three other polo fatalities in the entire history of the game in England.

BALLADE OF NEW RECRUITS.
(Being the confessions of a club owner.)
Although he hails from Kankakee
Out where the human Quinces grow;
Or hit about one-thirty-three
All season in the P. & O.
Does this annihilate us, Bo?
Do we consider this a bar?
Just watch the sable head lines glow—
"Ten Thousand Paid For Coming Star."

No matter what the dope might be
If he's a new core for the show;
This line of type from sea to sea
Is planted everywhere you go;
The odds are in a month or so
He'll stall about twelve shy of par,
But watch the flaming headlines crow,
"Ten Thousand Paid For Coming Star."

So, famed recruit, we quaff to thee;
Our hats are off and we bow low;
You gather immortality
Enmeshed within the fable dough;
Before the test you soon may blow;
What matters that, when near and far,
The headlines greet you in a flow
"Ten Thousand Paid For Coming Star,"

THE REST OF IT.
What care we if he's fast or slow,
Or what his batty records are?
Here rests the answer just below—
"Ten Thousand Paid For Coming Star."

These are sad days for many. If the Yankees, Cubs and Cardinals don't refrain from fluttering around last place soon Messrs. Murphy and Bresnahan may commit hari-kari at any moment. They are now at the ultimate limit of human endurance and abiding woe over what has happened to their late charges.

CHANCE AND THE A. L.

According to Frank Chance the American league greeted him with several tons of flowers and a carload of brickbats. The P. L. may have a noisy roar coming over the Chase-Zeider episode but beyond this we know of no manager who was ever given the welcome accorded the Yankee chief.

It may be true enough that no clubs were willing to help him out or figure in any trades, but baseball is a scramble where each man must look out for himself, not forgetting that the Yankees had less trading material than almost any club in the game.

Chance made several attempts to trade Chase but no club was willing to take a chance on giving a star regular for the Yanks' first baseman. For which no club can be blamed as Chase hadn't played well for New York in two years. There was a stout chance that he might get going again, but after all it was a chance.

This doesn't accuse Jimmy Callahan from the double cross if he told Chance that Zeider was in shape to play. If the Yankee leader can prove Callahan knew that Zeider was unfit physically there will be a fine little opening ahead through which Ban Johnson might inject his teeming personality.

Otherwise we fail to see where the American league is at fault. It did all it could for the famous e-Cub before the game began and then it did even more—through no fault of Chance's but certainly through no fault of the American league.

Chance merely fell heir to the most tangled situation in the game—a situation that will require time, patience, money, ability, genius and the ball players to become unraveled. But the unraveling of the upbuilding must be done by Chance—not by the league.

Griff picked up Washington in seventh place and he has his team up there fighting among the leaders, but not a regular on his club came from a rival team? Moeller, Shanks, Foster, Morgan, Boheling and the rest were all gathered in from outside quarters.

WAGE STRIKE PUT PELKY ON ROAD TO RING HONORS

"Two hundred and five pounds of muscle and bone, with a terrific kick in either hand," that's Arthur Pelkey, new world's heavyweight champion.

If there hadn't been a strike—

But the if generally isn't, and that is why Arthur Pelkey is the central attraction of the boxing world just now. Pelkey is the new heavyweight champion of the world. Pelkey's entrance into the fighting profession was due to wage strike in New York cotton mill.

Pelkey was general overseer. The workers struck and Pelkey was with them. Strike funds weren't handled then as now and Pelkey had to hustle for food. He was "clean broke" and hungry when fate intervened.

"You're a husky lad," remarked a fight promoter to Pelkey one afternoon. "How about going against Salisbury? There's twenty bucks in it." Salisbury was amateur heavyweight champion, but Pelkey fought him six bloody rounds to a draw.

After that bouts came thick and fast and the ex-cotton mill worker gained a "clahsy" reputation in the east. Then Tommy Burns, ex-heavyweight champion, noticed him and in February, 1913, Pelkey boxed Burns a six-round draw in Calgary, Canada.

Next Pelkey knocked out Andy Morris in eight rounds and Burns immediately took Pelkey in hand, matching him with Luther McCarty, which ended in McCarty's death and Pelkey was held on a technical murder charge, but acquitted when physicians declared McCarty had died from causes other than from Pelkey's punch.

Pelkey's right name is Andrew Arthur Peltier. He was born in Chatham, Ont., and is the oldest of 13 children. His father is French-Canadian and his mother is Irish.

When Pelkey was fifteen years old he left home and went to Massachusetts, where he worked in a cotton mill until he was twenty-seven. Then came the strike and Pelkey's change of occupation.

Little Journeys to the Diamond
The Pinch Hitter

The pinch hitter is a rare specimen of the genus athlete, popularly supposed to be all bat. But any member of the home rooting clan will tell you the pinch hitter is the big lobster who draws his salary for warming the bench or getting a hit when it doesn't do any good.

The pinch hitter usually is sent to clout for the pitcher in the last of the ninth, when the home club has runners on second and third, a run needed to tie, and two to win. He always pops to the pitcher or hits out to the catcher.

However, if there's no one on the danger circuit and the home team's so far rearward the regulars already have ducked for the shower, the pinch hitter may be counted on to cross the crowd by knocking a double or a home run.

These instances of pinch (or pinchless) hitters refer only to the home club. The pinch hitter of the visiting teams nearly always makes good, whereupon many persons in the stand get up and go home.

But the pinch hitter of the visiting team who stalks to the plate with two pals on the red lantern route and the game a tie, carries fear in huge gobs to the heart of every quivering home bug.

The home pitcher has been chucking recklessly all afternoon and the invaders have been waiting him out. Hence the pitcher figures the pinch hitter probably will look at the first one, sc over the groove he lays the ball.

Now the pinch hitter is executing a bit of thinking on his own part, and swinging to meet that first groove pitch he brings it merrily and rambles round the route, while his mates reel home with the tallies that send the town lugs home to bait the family dog and the cook.

The comments from the stand are interesting:

"Why couldn't Casey Jones do that when he batted for Jinx in the fifth?" a bug laments.

"Why, that big joke couldn't hit a balloon with a pickaxe," rejoins a bug who probably lost a stogie on the game "He never made a hit in his life when it was needed. He must have something on the club owner or he wouldn't stick around on the pay roll."

There have been many famous pinch hitters. One of the greatest was John Alden, a member of the Pilgrim club in the early Puritan league. John went to bat for Miles Standish and made a hit.

One American Boat Wins in French Meet

HAVRE, July 21.—Regatta week opened brilliantly, with the French premier, M. Barthou, and Minister of Marine Boudina in attendance. There was only one American entry in the events, Charles Prince's Heric, finishing third in the class for eight meter boats, behind Sir Ralph Force's Truant and S. Crawford's Irene.

In the other international events Noreca, owned by Carl Gutzelt, Norwegian, won the ten-meter class; Vanda, owned by Captain Dixon, of London, won the six-meter class; the Hana, owned by the German A. M. Pringsheim, captured the Edward VII cup for the race for the Dover trophy.

Herreschoff Gets Cup

MANCHESTER, Vt., July 21.—By defeating H. K. Kerr, of South Shore, Long Island, three up and two to play, Frederick Herreschoff, Garden City, today won the final match for the Taconic cup. Thirty-six holes were played in the final.

Buena Vista Claims The Amateur Honors

BUENA VISTA, Ga., July 21.—Sporting Editor Atlanta Journal: We notice in The Journal a few days ago a write-up of the Senoia baseball team, that they claim to be the only team to have defeated the Lanett team, and claiming the amateur championship of the state.

Beg to say the writer is in error. On June 23 Buena Vista defeated Lanett by the score of 4 to 2; again, June 25 score 3 to 2. Buena Vista has defeated every team payed this season. In a game with Montezuma recently they batted Senoia's crack pitcher, Methvin, to all parts of the field, scoring seven runs in two innings.

Buena Vista claims to have the best amateur team in the state of Georgia, superior to anything in the Empire league, and hereby challenge any team in the state having any claim.

Respectfully,
BUENA VISTA BASEBALL ASS'N.

Columbus is Setting Pace
Now Looks as If Jim Fox Will Win Pennant in the Second Race

Five victories for Columbus in the South Atlantic league last week leaves that team still leading the association, Savannah, which won the pennant in the first half of the season, is second, with Jacksonville a close third.

Savannah won two games and lost three.

Macon last week took the place of Albany as tail-ender. Albany also passed Charleston, winning four games of five played.

Savannah, Jacksonville, Albany and Charleston are so nearly together in the percentage column that two games won will reverse the standing of the clubs. Columbus has a good lead, while Macon is far behind the others.

Robertson, the Savannah pitcher, lost a game to Albany, breaking his sensational string of victories. Hits off pitchers in the league throughout the week were unusually few.

COOLER WEATHER CAUSED THE DECLINE IN COTTON

Market in New York Closed 4 to 12 Points Lower Than the Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 21.—Cooler conditions in the southwestern cotton belt and showers in south Atlantic states over Sunday, with a weak Liverpool market this morning and an evening decline here of 4 to 12 points, were influences from local traders we ad hoogt onhhhh ferings from local traders who had bought on the 60c market expecting prices were quite liberal were gradually absorbed by new buyers. Prices rallied 3 to 4 points from the early low level. It was claimed Texas was in need of a general rain and that the long range forecast gave little encouragement to the belief that showers were predicted, however, for the eastern belt.

Later in the forenoon the local market showed steadiness on a little buying for Wall street and other outside accounts, with rates at midday 2to 3 points up from the lowest and 10 points above Monday on new crop months.

Estimated receipts of cotton at all the ports today 5,000 bales, against 2,208 last week and 3,25 1 last year.

While business remained quiet in the early afternoon the market showed where to look from the lowest on a little covering on reports of clear weather all over the belt and talk of shedding in sections of the eastern belt where heavy showers have followed recent high temperatures.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

New Orleans, July 21.—Cotton futures opened steady at a decline of 5 to 7 points on room selling and the first show here of rain in the eastern cotton belt. Private reports from various sections of the cotton region indicated that the drought had been broken in some quarters and that temperatures were much lower. Liverpool reported unsettled weather with rain about setting and gave the market a steady undertone. At the end of the first half hour business price were 6 to 7 points below Saturday's close.

At the middle of the morning the market stood 7 to 8 down. New sales were reported unofficially in Texas and the rumor said that a bale of new cotton had been offered in Selma, Ala. This, however, was not confirmed. The local forecast was considered favorable as it promised showers in the eastern belt and in the southern portion of the central belt today. No real selling power developed, however, and a small demand from scalping shorts who wanted their profits served to check the downward movement. Prices were 5 to 6 points lower under Saturday's closing level.

COTTON GOSSIP

Washington long range forecast.—No hot wave is looked for this week by the weather bureau.

"The present pressure distribution over the northern Rocky Mountain and Pacific coast states, appears favorable for the prevalence of moderate, or at least, not unusually high temperatures over the greater portion of the country during the coming week. Over the south and southwest temperatures probably will be high at times, but not so high as during the week just ended.

"As to precipitation, prospects are not very favorable, and generally fair weather may be expected over all sections except the South Atlantic and east gulf states, where occasional thunderstorms are likely to occur.

"Forecasts of the indications of a West Indian disturbance."

Splendid map, fair northern portion, cloudy lower two-thirds of belt; heat spell entirely removed, cool entire belt. Splendid rains Atlantic, nice rains in north Alabama and Arkansas; showers north and east Texas. Indications favorable for continued cool with more showers in southern two-thirds of belt.—Kofler.

Forecast—Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday generally cloudy, showers in south portion tonight or Tuesday; light northerly winds on the coast.

Arkansas and Oklahoma—Tonight and Tuesday probably fair.

East Texas—Tonight and Tuesday generally cloudy, showers in south portion tonight or Tuesday; light northerly winds on the coast.

West Texas—Tonight and Tuesday generally cloudy.

South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama—Local showers.

Kentucky—Fair tonight; Tuesday warmer.

Mississippi—Fair in north and west portion; local showers southeast portion tonight Tuesday.

San Antonio—First bale received here this morning—four days later than last year. Street Bradley is the shipper.—Evans.

Selma, Ala., wires: A. A. Sims, of Eleanor, Ala., sold the first open boll of cotton.

Schill largest buyer on call, Hutton and Mitchell leading buyers after call, selling scattered, with general buying preserved monthly from portions of Texas which brought out the selling; here, man only showed a light sprinkle at Galveston but heavy rains in body of eastern belt.

Galveston wires: Texas panhandle clear, balance part cloudy to clear, local rains north and east, scattered elsewhere, generally clear.

Official records show temperatures of the week in Oklahoma down to 90 degrees, Atlanta 90, Augusta 84, Memphis 94, and Vicksburg reports of a total of 11 in Oklahoma had half inch of rain Saturday.

STOCK GOSSIP

Financial Bureau says: Information chanels favor purchase of standard stocks on reactions for fifteen to twenty points and big more reasonable profits.

It looks as if the large interests are increumulating stocks on all weak spots with the idea that they will be worth more money this fall. Climatic conditions continue favorable for the growing crops and the situation in Europe seems to be improving. Financial interagencies predict a termination of the Balkan war within a few days. Would buy stocks like Union Pacific, Reading, Steel and Copper for the long pull.—Porter.

Two Republicans desert. Twenty active mills declined 27.

GRAIN GOSSIP

Bartlett, Frazier & Co. say:

Weather and eyes of the trade are still on the northwest and there is no change in the rest of the country at the moment is the most important feature to watch for a further narrow market today.

Corn—We continue to feel friendly to the market on all little declines.

Oats—Prices have had a fair rally from the low point of the season and while they may set back a little, but we do not feel like pressing short sales.

Provisions—Shorts continue to cover freely, but think there has been considerable realizing by prominent longs and some little outright would seem natural.

Minneapolis.—A special to the St. Paul Pioneer Press from Winona, Minn., says: Reports from 115 stations along the line in southern Minnesota indicate that the wheat crop this year will be fully as large as in 1912, and that was a bumper corn crop, from all reports throughout the territory, will be a record.

Snow wires from Smith Center, Kan.: Of 7,000,000 acres in wheat and in corn, 3,000,000 are in counties within 100 miles of Missouri line. Crop here ranges fair to good, with light damage from recent heat and drouth. While this part of the state might still make close to an average crop, the rest of Kansas needs the intense heat has damaged it severely to the total in the southern half of the state and lighter in the north, about one-fifth of the crop was in tassel, and this entirely gone. In the big northeastern counties there is very little and is but little fired. The plant, however, is stunted and ranges from 4 to 6 inches at four and five feet. In central and southern Nebraska corn areas are generally dead. The aggregate loss from chinch bugs is unestimated. Recent rains were local and insufficient for relief. The crop will certainly be a failure in most districts without soaking rains. Estimates for the state are small values, but a favorable crop can hardly exceed 115,000,000, and might easily be much less. Prices, condition and quality, everywhere is above expectations."

Broomhall cables: The wheat market opened with a steady undertone, being influenced by the lighter world's shipments and lower and firmer offerings of American winter wheat. Following the opening there was some tendency to take profits on the increasing stocks here. Corn was irregular, but there was a fair demand for late parcels. The weather in the United Kingdom is unsettled, but fine in France.

Forecast for entire grain belt is fair and warmer.

Nebraska.—In the wheat and corn region no rain for the past 24 hours. Maximum temperatures 95 degrees.

Wheat was higher on steady cables, reports of the lighter world's shipments, buying by Armoor and local shorts, and on strength in corn.

Corn went up on a bullish report by Snow in Kansas, poor prospects of relief from drouth, lighter world's shipments and buying by commission houses and shorts.

Saving and Investing

The Woman, The Lawyer and the Money

BY JOHN M. OSKISON

She was a business woman—a milliner—in a country town. Bit by bit she had saved $1,000, and this sum stood to her credit in a local bank. Then, unexpectedly, the bank failed. After a time its affairs were straightened out and all depositors received their money in full.

She had never received interest on her money at the bank, being content to leave it there on the theory that it would be perfectly safe. But, after the bank's failure, she reasoned that she would have to get interest on her money, anyway, and she consulted a lawyer well known in the town for his shrewdness concerning a possible investment.

"You want some income from your return on your money?" asked the lawyer. "That is right. I don't usually handle my clients' funds, but in your case I will make an exception. I know a farmer who wants to borrow $1,000, and he will pay you interest—$60 a year, on it."

The woman turned over her $1,000 to the lawyer on the lawyer's assurance that he would draw up the mortgage, get the farmer's signature, and keep it safe for her.

"You just come in every six months," said the lawyer, "and collect your $30 of interest."

For three years the woman followed the lawyer's instructions. He was always prompt in handing to her $30. Then the lawyer died, and the woman went to get the mortgage. There was no mortgage, and she had been left a mortgage, and it was discovered that the lawyer had simply converted the $1,000 to his own use and had paid the semi-annual $30 out of his own pocket.

Of course, the moral of the tale is plain. No one should surrender money to any one without getting a receipt at the same time such an acknowledgment of the exchange as will be recognized in a court of law. No honest banker or other people's money will ever object to giving such a form of acknowledgment.

JUDGE NEWMAN GOES TO N. C. FOR HIS VACATION

Judge Newman, of the federal court, has gone to Arden, N. C., for his annual vacation, and will be gone several weeks.

Judge Newman recently celebrated his seventieth birthday, and all the juries in the four divisions within the northern district of Georgia passed resolutions asking the judge not to exercise his privilege of retiring, a privilege given to federal judges who have reached the age of seventy.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET WAS STRONG AND HIGHER

Union Pacific, Reading, Steel, Canadian Pacific, Copper and St. Paul Led

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 21.—The week in the stock market opened with few material changes, aside from a 1 point advance in Amalgamated Copper and substantially unchanged prices in Steel and Canadian Pacific. Elsewhere changes were slight and suggestive of professional manipulation.

New points of strength cropped out, which facilitated the general upward movement. Can was especially strong, touching 32, and Reading also advanced in a vigorous manner. Minor specialties were bought at substantially higher figures. Wells Fargo Express dropped 6 points to 103, the year's lowest.

Improvement in sentiment largely from betterment in the Balkan monetary situation was again a factor today. London bought 5,000 to 10,000 shares principally Steel and Union Pacific. Local traders helped the movement by moderately large purchases of these and other leaders. Room traders were bought, according to gossip, a bull pool of formidable proportion has been organized in Steel. Early gain of one to two points embraced over a score of active and semi-active issues, including some specialties long dormant. While the advance was an exception to the general trend falling given points to par.

Bonds were firm.

The market was aroused out of its torpor in the late afternoon, the list attaining a higher level under the lead of Union Pacific. That stock's further advance resulted from the publication of the annual statement of 1912-13, disclosing an enlarged surplus of 15 per cent.

The final hour was marked by a degree of fullness and although prices shaded a trifle in the more active issues, gains were well maintained.

Closed firm.

LONDON STOCKS.

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 21.—Money rates hardened, but discount rates were easy. The bulk of the $5,500,000 in gold offered in the open market today was taken by the Bank of England. Although the undertone of the stock market was firm, there was little business. Italian situation, business was very narrow. Home rails passed, while Kaffirs remained neglected.

American securities, after early irregularities, closed steady. Prices of dominated Copper, United States Steel and Canadian Pacific.

The close was firm.

JOURNAL OF WANTED Horoscope

JULY 22

This birthdate shows the passing out of the sign Cancer and the coming into the sign Leo, which governs all birthdates from July 22 to August 22.

The sign Leo means the lion, and is the middle sign of the fire triplicity in the Zodiac. The sun governs this sign. The birthstones are the ruby and the diamond, and the astral colors are red and green.

This birthdate gives great fondness for music, and this love should be satisfied and given every opportunity for cultivation. Many of the finest singers and composers were born under the Leo sign.

All the arts, professions, higher callings in life work attract people of this birthdate, and, if persistent, they may reach the greatest success in any line.

This coming two weeks the planetary influences favor the advertising of rooms to let, houses for sale, and the placing of servants through the columns of Want Ads. The Lost and Found Columns will be well patronized.

Telephone your ad to The Journal, or ask that it be sent by whichever is most convenient for you. Main 5000. Atlanta 423.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

Entries Coming in for Third Contest

ABOUT two-thirds of the pens for the third annual contest which begins December 1, have already been entered. This promises to be the greatest laying contest ever held in this or any other country. We have promise of pens from the United States, Canada, England and Australia. Our rules are liberal, the premiums large, the entry fee small, and the contest will be held under the auspices of a state institution, the Missouri State Poultry Experiment station. No breeder's name need appear on the pen or in the reports unless he wants it to appear. The best breeders in Missouri and America should have a pen trapnested and have their stock pedigreed. You will have to hurry as we can only accommodate sixty pens. We will also try out ducks again in the next contest.

THE FEEDING TEST.

The pen which has feed of all kinds before it where the hens can help themselves dropped from first place last month to sixth place this month. They made a good record all during the winter and spring, and surpassed all other pens. This would indicate that hens may do well where fed this way in winter, but it is not a good method of feeding hens in hot weather. The pen which gets nothing but corn, wheat and ground oats and nothing to drink but buttermilk, has now passed to first place.

Pen No. 1—Anconas, Missouri	212 eggs
Pen No. 10—R. C. White Leghorns, Missouri	210 eggs
Pen No. 11—Black Minorcas, Iowa	212 eggs
Pen No. 17—Black Minorcas, New York	199 eggs
Pen No. 18—S. C. Buff Leghorns, Missouri	194 eggs
Pen No. 8—S. C. White Leghorns, California	196 eggs
Pen No. 2—S. C. White Leghorns, England	191 eggs
Pen No. 26—Buff Wyandottes, Missouri	184 eggs
Pen No. 5—Black Minorcas, Missouri	181 eggs
Pen No 26—White Wyandottes, Arkansas	178 eggs
Pen No. 7—Anconas, Oregon	178 eggs
Pen No. 14—S. C. White Leghorns, Pennsylvania	176 eggs

The twelve highest individual records made thus far are as follows:

Hen No. 860—Buff Wyandotte, Vermont	190 eggs
Hen No. 66—S. C. White Leghorn, England	187 eggs
Hen No. 100—Buff Wyandotte, Missouri	184 eggs
Hen No. 62—S. C. White Leghorn, England	179 eggs
Hen No. 61—S. C. White Leghorn, England	178 eggs
Hen No. 65—S. C. White Leghorn, England	176 eggs
Hen No. 735—Black Langshan, Missouri	171 eggs
Hen No. 67—S. C. White Leghorn, England	167 eggs
Hen No. 55—R. C. White Leghorn, Missouri	165 eggs
Hen No. 77—Ancona, Missouri	164 eggs
Hen No. 72—Ancona, Missouri	162 eggs

PEN NO. 67 FED BY AUTOMATIC FEEDERS.

This pen gets exactly the same feed and treatment that our regular contest pens receive. The only difference is that the grain is fed night and morning by hand to the pens in the contest, and this pen in the feeding test, supply themselves with grain, by working it out of an automatic feeder and exerciser. This pen is in second place and thus would indicate that this is not a bad method. The Connecticut Contest uses these same feeders exclusively in their contest and no grain is hand fed. This method may prove to be a great labor-saver.

Yours very truly,

Lewis Roberts

Manufacturers Meet to Consider New Building's Location, but Take No Action—Mims Property in Ansley Park Is Sold, Moreland Avenue, East Lake, Pine Street and Other Small Sales—Real Estate Men Want Legislation

The special committee which is to select a location for the new manufacturers' building met Monday morning, but took no decided action as to the building.

Several proposals were laid before the committee and these were discussed.

Among the proposals was that of J. R. Smith, who offered to erect a six-story building at the corner of Walton and Barlow streets, the cost of the building to be $100,000.

There were other proposals, including a location on South Pryor street.

ANSLEY PARK SALE.

The L. C. Green company has sold for the estate of Mrs. Sue Harper Mims to W. N. Gray a residence property on Peachtree circle in Ansley park. The consideration was $10,937.

The lot is known as No. 2 of block 13, and is 60x145.

OTHER SALES.

Several small transactions were announced on Monday and agents reported a steadily increasing inquiry.

Forrest & George Adair have sold for Tom H. Pitt and D. O. Chestnut to F. E. Walthall No. 114 North Moreland avenue, a seven-room residence on a lot 40x200 for $7,000.

The same agency sold for Thomas B. Paine to Mrs. V. V. Tilson a bungalow on the East Lake drive between Fair and Herman streets, the lot being 56x170, for $5,500, and for A. W. Mynatt to Mrs. Laura Quarles No. 182 East Pine street, a two-story, seven-room house on a lot 37 1-2x150, for $5,350.

Ralph Martin has sold, through the Martin-Ozburn Realty company, his residence at No. 365 East Georgia avenue, a six-room house on a lot 50x150. The consideration was not given.

SINKING FUND BILL.

The Atlanta real estate board is extremely anxious to have real estate mortgages included among investments for sinking funds, and will try to have this feature incorporated in a measure now pending before the Georgia legislature.

Harris White, president of the board, urges members of the board to meet either at his office or those of S. B. Turman and W. A. Foster early Tuesday afternoon, so that the agents can make a showing before the legislative committee at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Real estate is being recognized more and more as safe collaterial, a conspicuous instance being the movement in congress just now to have it included in security that national banks may accept.

Real estate the country over has gone out of the speculative stage to a place of stability kept so by the growth of population and the steadily increasing demand for land.

The big insurance companies recognize this as well as state and private banks which are not prohibited by legislation from accepting real estate as collateral.

It is believed that the committee will be impressed by the argument of the Atlanta real estate men.

DANGER IN MEAT EATING

Medical Reports Show That People Who Eat Much Meat Are Susceptible to Typhoid Fever.

The death rate of Typhoid has been 10 per cent for many years. Even if patient recovers, there is danger. Weakened constitution, languidness, loss of energy, and other after effects.

In a majority of cases typhoid fever is directly traceable to an inactive liver which has refused to clear away the masses of meat particles left undigested in the alimentary canal. This mass putrefies and sends out death-dealing poisons, to result in typhoid fever.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT is the greatest known liver stimulant. Its action is gentle, yet effective. It draws water to the alimentary tract, flushes the stomach and bowels, washes away the undigested meat particles and removes the danger of fermentation. The blood is purified through the renewed activity of the liver.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT does not cause nausea and vomiting, and there are no dangerous after-effects as with calomel. Don't take an inferior substitute; many imitate the name but cannot produce the same natural, flushing action of the genuine JACOBS' LIVER SALT. At all druggists, 25c. If your druggist cannot supply you we will mail full size jar upon receipt of price, postage free. Made and guaranteed by Jacobs' Pharmacy Co., Atlanta.—(Advt.)

ASHLEY WILL OPPOSE POWER PLANT OPTION

The effort to override the mayor's veto of the Humphrey resolution to pay $5 for an option on the Destructor company to erect an electric generating plant in connection with the crematory within the next twelve months will be opposed at council meeting Monday afternoon.

Councilman C. L. Ashley will oppose the resolution on the ground that the acceptance of the option binds the city to the purchase of a 1,500-kilowatt machine, while only an 800-kilowatt machine may be needed.

"We should first determine," says he, "just what power the plant is developing; and when we find out just what kind of engine is needed the city should advertise and receive bids from the big electrical concerns. This will enable us to purchase at the lowest price, and will cut out a middleman's profit."

Mayor Woodward declares that council will merely throw away $5 of the city's money if the resolution is passed, because no council can make contracts binding on a succeeding council.

"And," says the mayor, "even if they had their little old plant generating electricity down there it would cost close onto a million dollars to set up the means of distributing the current."

Another resolution that will go back to council this afternoon is the Nutting resolution providing for the collection of garbage at night between the hours of 8 and 12 o'clock instead of in the morning.
